

Prison Trustees May Be Used To Work In State's Parks

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26 — The use of carefully-screened convict labor to bring Ohio's state parks and forests up to par is receiving careful consideration by Governor Lausche and Natural Resources Director A. W. Marion today.

The trustees employed would be of the type that would not impose the slightest danger on the citizens using the facilities.

It could be expected that those who were assigned on a volunteer basis to the park set-up would be sifted from inmates sentenced for non-violent crimes such as non-support, bad checks, embezzlement, defrauding an innkeeper and similar offenses.

Such prisoners, who never represented a physical danger to anyone and who obviously would not come in contact with the public or be placed in positions of trust, could be employed on such jobs as road grading, forestry nurseries, construction of shelters, benches and trails, general maintenance, and similar activities.

There could be no charges of "chain-gang labor" hurled against the state, since the workers would be honor prisoners who volunteered for the jobs, because they were much more desirable than sitting in the prison cell, doing nothing.

The work actually would boil down to the type performed by CCC boys during the early 1930s.

Trusty labor would solve two vital problems facing the state. Both have been cited repeatedly by Governor Lausche. They are:

1.—An insufficiency of state funds to carry on necessary functions of government at desirable levels—in this case park and forest maintenance, and

2.—The enforced idleness of prisoners in the state's overcrowded correctional institutions.

Only yesterday Governor Lausche cited the overcrowded conditions in Ohio Penitentiary, where 4,389 prisoners are jammed into quarters originally designed to house only 2,500. Other institutions are similarly packed.

Inmates are assigned to such jobs as are available in the prison shops, such as the planing mill, the woolen factory, the auto license tag shop, and so on.

Jobs are greatly sought after by the prisoners, since they find enforced idleness much harder to bear than a steady job. In addition, they receive some slight pay which can either be sent to their dependents or saved against the day of their release.

But there just aren't enough jobs to go around. More than 500 penitentiary prisoners sit all day long in their "idle company" cells, since by law the inmates of any state institution may not be employed in any capacity that competes with private industry. They may manufacture only products for use by the state or its political subdivisions.

Upkeep of state parks would not compete with any private industry, and obviously would save the state untold thousands of dollars. At the same time it would furnish wholesome, clean employment for idle convict hands.

67th Year—21

India Cuts Ties Asiatic Power Now Is Nation

NEW DELHI, Jan. 26—India triumphantly ended 92 years of direct allegiance to the British crown today, taking its place as a sovereign republic and the main Asiatic pillar against Communism.

Throughout the troubled country of 330 million persons, guns boomed, sirens shrieked, joyous linked arms beneath flag-pledged flowered arches.

Violence tributed to Communists marred celebration of the "Republic Day" today, where eight policemen were injured by a shower of acid bombs and stones.

Police fired into the crowd of demonstrators who spewed them and killed 50 persons.

At Durbar Hall in Government House here, Dr. Rajendra Prasad, 65-year-old former English professor, agronomist, lawyer and follower of the late Mohandas K. Gandhi, was sworn in as first president of the new republic.

THE NEW NATION, whose official Indian name is Bharat, was proclaimed formally by Chakravarty Rajagopalachari, the last governor general in a line going back to 1858. In that year, the British crown took over India from the East India Co.

Tens of thousands cheered as the presidential flag was hoisted slowly to a mast atop Government House.

The ceremony here, attended by foreign diplomats and splendidly robed Indian princes, was enacted simultaneously in Bombay, Calcutta, Madras and other provincial centers where governors and ministers were sworn in under the new constitution.

The new constitution gives India full independence. But the government led by Premier Jawaharlal Nehru has elected to remain voluntarily within the British Commonwealth.

Indian freedom was announced Aug. 15, 1947. This day was chosen for the formal proclamation of the republic because it falls just 20 years after the Congress Party had vowed to lead the country to statehood.

Youngsters Like All This Rain

MARION, Jan. 26—Maybe you don't, but the kids at Green Camp school like all this rain.

Because...

As long as it rains the Little Miami river will be swollen, and as long as the Little Miami is swollen the school well will be contaminated, and

As long as the well is contaminated, there ain't gonna be no school!

County health authorities closed the school, 10 miles southwest of here, until the contamination clears up.

Living Costs Slipping Down

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 — The government reported further declines in the cost of living today and said that food prices are at their lowest level in two and one-half years.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the overall cost of living went down 0.7 percent last month, paced by a drop of 1.7 percent in food costs. Chiefly responsible for the decline was a 2.6 percent downturn in the prices of meats, poultry and fish and a slash of 14.3 percent in egg prices.

THIS STRIKING photo of Gen. Douglas MacArthur was taken just a few days ago in time for his 70th birthday being observed Thursday. About the time the photographer showed up, the general's physicians completed a thorough examination and declared that MacArthur still is in "fighting trim."

Mac 70 Years Old Today; Son's Present Tops List

TOKYO, Jan. 26—Gen. Douglas MacArthur received the congratulations of world leaders on his 70th birthday today but the surprise present of his 12-year-old son pleased him most.

Young Arthur, who has been working in deepest secrecy for weeks, gave the Allied commander a floral painting done in pastels and a five-sided ash tray.

He painted the picture and framed it and made the wooden ash tray to match a humidifier, piperack and wooden bookends that had been earlier presents to his dad.

MacArthur, a proud and delighted father, said of the painting:

"It is pretty good work for a boy and better than a Rembrandt to me."

THE GENERAL'S five-star insignia was carved on the bottom of the ash tray.

Arthur's handicraft instructor, Chief Warrant Officer Lionel Martin of Pitman, N. J., declared that Oak Ridge atomic security provisions were "sissy compared to the security of our workroom."

MacArthur arrived at his office shortly before 11 a. m., reviewed a guard of honor outside the American embassy compound, conferred briefly with his top aides, and then announced he was ready to receive visitors.

When the first questions devoted to the presents from his son were answered, MacArthur spoke briefly of his future.

The commander repeated that it is his personal desire to remain in Japan until the peace treaty is concluded.

The general appeared in excellent health, and his only deviations from a normal workday were to review the honor guard and have a birthday open house at occupation headquarters.

Chinese Warns Against Red OK

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 26 — A top Chinese spokesman warned today that recognition by UN of a Communist delegate from China would "send a shiver" throughout all Asia and seal 450 million Chinese behind an iron curtain.

Dr. Tingfu F. Tsiang, leading Chinese figure at UN, served notice he will not surrender his seat in the Security Council to Wen Tien Chang, who has been designated by Mao Tze-tung to represent the Peiping regime in the world organization.

Lewis May Try To End Strikes Fear Of White House Action Seen As Reason For UMW Move

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—John L. Lewis may try today to head off presidential intervention in the coal shortage by ending the "wildcat" strike of 90,000 soft coal miners in five states.

The United Mine Workers president may issue direct orders to the idle unionists to get back into the pits and ease the fuel shortage which threatens to bring White House action.

Administration sources said Mr. Truman probably will wait until next week before making any move and give Lewis a chance to get all his 480,000 soft and hard coal diggers back on a three-day work week.

The Federal Bureau of Mines reported that coal stockpiles are near the "danger point" and the national economy "is now or soon will be imperiled."

Director James R. Boyd hinted strongly that the emergency largely is due to the fact that the nation has not been getting the full production possible even on a three-day mine work week.

He said 9.5 million tons of coal were lost in the four weeks ended Jan. 1 because of strikes and the fact that the miners worked only two days during the Christmas and New Year weeks.

The miners have produced as much as nine million tons of coal in a three-day week, but recently the output has slumped to little over five million tons as a result of strikes in highly productive pits.

Some 76,000 diggers in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky and Alabama now are insisting they will not go back to work until a new contract is signed.

After the miners had been idle one week, Lewis "suggested" that they return to their jobs. The suggestion was not obeyed.

Anglican Priest Pooh-Poohs Rite To Oust Ghost

SOUTHFLEET, Eng., Jan. 26 —An Anglican priest today pooh-poohed the ghost-ridding job performed by a colleague, and insisted the spirit of a "nun in russet gown and lace-edged cap" still haunts his rectory despite all rites to exorcise her.

The Rev. William Falloon of Southfleet asserted:

"A bishop tried to exorcise the ghost from my rectory 70 years ago, but she still comes from the monks' room in the rectory as she has done for over 100 years."

The rector said he had sent letters to all the persons involved in an exorcising Tuesday night near Bristol warning them not to expect too much.

In that ceremony, the Rev. Francis Maddock, also an Anglican, performed a rite which he said was "as old as the Christian church itself" to eliminate a sprightly feminine ghost from the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Baber. He pronounced his effort a success.

7 Die In Java As Police Try To Find Rebels

JAKARTA, Jan. 26 — Seven persons were reported killed and several others wounded today when Indonesian troops were attacked while searching the Saw Besar area of Jakarta where Capt. R. P. P. (The Turk) Westerling has seized the police barracks.

A number of suspects believed connected with the Dutch soldier-of-fortune were arrested by the police.

Westerling and his "private army" swooped down early today on the capital city of the month-old United States of Indonesia, touching off disturbances in various parts of the city.

The raid was the third and biggest target of the swagging 35-year-old former Dutch officer who has demanded that the new republic recognize his private army in West Java.

Indonesian police sources reported the police cordoned off several streets in the center of (Continued on Page Two)

Mercury Up To 77

Wednesday High Equals 1879 Mark

Thursday was a nasty day in Pickaway County, but residents still were talking about Wednesday's weather when temperature records were shattered.

The high reading, according to the official thermometer watched by John Smith, local observer, inched up to a high of 77—mighty warm for Jan. 25.

And, Smith reported, local records have not seen such a warm Jan. 25 since 1879.

The rain was bringing cooler weather Thursday, however. And much colder is the forecast for Thursday night and Friday.

Lima had its highest temperature reading in 16 years Wednesday with 71 degrees, while its monthly rainfall of 8.28 inches set a 25-year record.

In Columbus the mercury climbed to 74, the highest in nearly three quarters of a century.

MARTINS FERRY'S 76 set a new East Ohio high based on record that have been kept since 1874.

A Toledo reading just .6 of a degree shy of the all-time 71.3 high recorded for January in 1890 was reached Wednesday afternoon.

But the series of temperature highs is scheduled to come to a sudden end Thursday when the mercury throughout the state takes a plunge downward into the subfreezing zone, the weatherman said.

The lows Thursday night will vary from 10 to 15 in the north-west to 25 to 30 degrees in east and south portions.

The subfreezing spell that's scheduled to move through the state Thursday won't be followed by any return to warm weather Friday, the weatherman said:

"The mercury tomorrow will remain in the 20's throughout most of Ohio, except in the extreme south where it may climb into the lower thirties."

Wallace Denies Giving Uranium Gear To Russia

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—Former Vice-President Henry Wallace told House spy probes today that he was "not responsible for nor aware of" any wartime uranium shipments to Russia.

Wallace, testifying under oath before the House Un-American Activities Committee, declared that lend-lease rather than the Bureau of Economic Warfare which he headed cleared any such shipments to the Soviet Union.

The former New Deal official categorically denied that he ever used his "influence" as vice-president to expedite shipments to Russia in 1943 or that he ever overruled Maj. Gen. Leslie Groves, head of the wartime Manhattan atomic bomb project.

Wallace declared:

"Since I was not even aware that the Russians were trying to obtain uranium or heavy water, it is demonstrably apparent that I could not have pressured someone else into issuing the licenses or urged them to pressure the Manhattan Engineering District to consent to their issue."

Temper Cooling In UAW Strike

DETROIT, Jan. 26 — Federal mediators today planned a "two or three day" cooling-off period before attempting to settle the Chrysler strike that pulled 112,000 CIO-United Auto Workers off their jobs.

John E. Deitz, assistant director of the Federal Mediation Service in Detroit, said the strategy was "to let tempers cool down" before attempting to arrange another bargaining session. Top-ranking union officials predicted that yesterday's nationwide walkout would last at least a month.

Engine Falls From Airliner

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 — An engine suddenly broke off a Northwest Airlines Stratocruiser and plunged to earth near here last night but the big ship landed safely at the municipal airport 17 miles away.

The pilot, Frank Ernst, jockeyed the four-engine craft, with 44 persons aboard, onto airport runway without incident. The 3,500 horsepower engine fell 4,000 feet and buried itself in a muddy field.

Ouster Plan Shunned By Cop Boss

'Starving, Shoving' Offers Lashed

Circleville Police Chief William "Bugs" McCrady made it plain Wednesday night.

City council will not:

(1) Starve him out, or

(2) Shove him out.

In short, council can expect no "deal" from the little Irishman who recently has felt numerous tongue-lashings from the city fathers.

Wednesday night's positive answer from Chief McCrady came during a meeting between the chief and his legal counsel, Emmitt Crist, and a committee of three councilmen.

The committee, made up of Ray Cook, Boyd Horn and Walden Reichelderfer, was sent to the parley by other councilmen.

Council recently renewed its attack against McCrady and foisted a movement to oust the police chief from his high office. The city fathers were interested in at least removing McCrady's chief-of-police badge.

THEY INDICATED they would accept one of two alternatives:

(1) McCrady could be reduced to "chief of detectives."

(2) He could take an increase in pay—just long enough to make it legal and then resign on a substantial pension.

But the man who has been a policeman in Circleville for 30-odd years wanted no part of either proposal. He said, in part, Wednesday night:

"Nothing doing. You cannot shove me out. And you cannot starve me out. If you want me out of office, you'll have to hatch up something on me and throw me out completely. And, boys, my record is clean."

Crist, a former Pickaway County judge and prosecuting attorney, reported Thursday that the conference was held in "a friendly atmosphere. There were no sharp words and it lasted about two hours." He added:

"Chief McCrady did not stay for the full conference. He made his statement quickly and without mincing words. He left early (Continued on Page Two)

Underworld Boss Being Sought In Boston Robbery

BOSTON, Jan. 26 — Specially-picked FBI agents sent from Washington by J. Edgar Hoover were reported today to be checking up on a purported "mastermind" of New England crime who may have engineered the $1.5 million Brink's Express Co. robbery.

Despite intensive investigation by thousands of New England police and an unknown number of federal agents, there is no known clew so far to perpetrators of the huge robbery ten days ago.

HYDERABAD, Jan. 26 — The Nizam of Hyderabad, India, often described as the richest man in the world, narrowly escaped possible death or serious injury today when a hand grenade thrown at his car missed its mark and failed to explode.

His assailant was arrested. Police could offer no reason for the assassination attempt. But the 63-year-old Sir Mir Osman Ali Khan, whose income was once estimated at $10 million a year, has been the center of a serious political-religious struggle in recent years.

The move will involve the third and final reading of an ordinance which would slash McCrady's salary from $211.75 to $150 a month.

This is the "starvation" move to which McCrady referred. The "showing" move referred to the reduction in rank which would come if McCrady was de-throned as chief and made "chief of detectives."

McCrady apparently feels that this is a two jump shove-out. He apparently doubts whether the "chief of detectives" job would last very long, that council would abolish it soon after creating same.

The Feb. 7 council meeting will bring the question to a head. If a vote comes, it probably will be very close.

City Hall observers believe that the ouster faction cannot hope for more than four votes favoring cutting McCrady's salary. Three council members are now being counted as voting "nay."

Mayor Thurman I. Miller has remained aloof from the whole debate, but McCrady backers are willing to wager that the mayor would veto the action.

To override the veto, anti-McCrady forces would require a two-thirds majority—a tally they do not have on the 4-3 ballot.

Second Estate Aide Named For Caskey Property

Rebecca J. Caskey has been appointed ancillary administrator with the will annexed of the William E. Caskey estate, total value of which has been estimated at $22,600.

Major portion of the estate is being administered in Kentucky, but since some of the property is located in Ohio an administrator with the will annexed has been appointed to handle affairs here.

In Circleville property belonging to the estate consists of a brick building at 106-108 South Court street, a brick building at 113 West Main street and a brick residence at 145 East High street.

The Caskey will leaves the Circleville properties to two nieces in Kentucky, but stipulates that $150 per month be paid to Rebecca L. Caskey, step-mother of the deceased, and that she have the right to occupy the High street residence rent free during her life. William E. Caskey died in Lexington, Ky., Dec. 11, 1949.

YEAR OF THE TIGER DAWNS FOR CHINA

What Will Next 12 Months Bring War-Wracked Nation?

By JOHN GOETTE

Central Press Correspondent
CHINESE NATIONALIST guerrillas and Red Army alike are set for an undeclared 10-day truce starting Feb. 17. The Chinese New Year must be celebrated in the traditional fashion of the last 4,229 years, civil war notwithstanding.

Feb. 17 ends the Year of the Ox and ushers in the Year of the Tiger. Both Nationalists and Communists boast that the "Lao Hu"—the Old Tiger—will bless their side. In any case, firecrackers instead of artillery, and prolonged feasting rather than meager army rations, will greet the New Year.

From isolated Nationalist areas to the new Communist capital at Peking, all babies born in the last 12 months automatically become a year older on this Chinese New Year Day.

Communist propaganda corps in this initial year of Red domination of China hold an ace card since their symbolic red is the same color dictated by ancient custom for New Years.

Millions of calling cards, gifts and silk scrolls are bright red during the 10-day festivities. Even Nationalist die-hard temporarily honor the red of their conquerors in respect for tradition.

THIS CHINESE New Year is late since 1949 was leap year in the native lunar calendar. Unlike our own Leap Year—with a mere extra February day—the Chinese generously add a full month of 30 days to theirs. Thus, in China, 1949 had two Julys.

Americans irritated by forgetfulness in writing 1949 for 1950 can be thankful they were not born to the mathematical maze by which China reckons time.

When our census takers ask the age of a Chinese refugee from the Communists like Mr. Wang, instead of getting a ready answer, they will see him speedily finger the wooden beads of his abacus.

Mr. Wang is 78 and it should be easier for him to tell the census taker that he was born in 1872.

In his mind, however, he was born in the eleventh year of the Emperor Tung Chih, and to answer the simple question there is a lot of figuring on his counting board salvaged from the overrunning Communists.

First he takes the three years between his birth and the death of his emperor. Then he adds 33 years for the successive reign of the Emperor Kuang Hsu and four years of the Emperor Hsuan T'ung. To that total he adds the 38 years of the Chinese republic. When he subtracts the resulting 78 from 1950, then, and only then, will Mr. Wang swear that he was born in 1872.

THE AMERICAN census taker will be more confounded when Mr. Wang suggests that despite his birth year, he actually is 79. Like Chinese babies at this New Year of the Tiger, he became two years old with his own first New Year Day back in 1873.

Mr. Wang, who hails from Manchuria, has always been perplexed by the international confusion of calendars. In his 78 (or 79) years, he has struggled with no less than eight different ways of estimating how old he might be.

He survived three emperors and with each change he started all over again with the Year One. The succeeding Chinese republic likewise readjusted the national calendar to begin with the year of its founding.

On top of this Chinese date juggling, the invading Japanese pyramided their complex calendar based on the reigns of their own Sons of Heaven.

The Japanese-puppet emperor of Manchuria, Henry Pu-Yi, interposed still another calendar of 11 years' duration. Russian occupation of parts of Manchuria exposed Mr. Wang to the eastern calendar with its disconcerting lapse of two weeks behind our western calendar, to which until now Mr. Wang gave little thought.

Finally, unlike the American who knows that New Year Day must fall on January first, Mr. Wang's New Year shifts similarly to our own variable Easter.

This is due to the lunar calendar's 12 months of 30 days each. The Chinese New Year is anywhere within the first six weeks of our western calendar.

ARMY OF EXPERTS
The treatment of infantile paralysis victims is more effective today than ever before, because there is available an ever-increasing army of police experts trained specifically to use modern scientific methods to combat this disease. Thousands of these experts trained through grants made by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis did yeoman service during last year's record epidemic in which more than 41,000 were stricken. This unprecedented toll depleted the resources of the National Foundation. Help keep the army of police experts supplied and prepared by giving generously to the March of Dimes. Give today.

End To Lease Is OK'd By Local Court

Authority to cancel a lease on a 212-acre farm in Deer Creek Township has been granted to Blanche Stalter, administratrix of the William A. Stalter estate, by Judge George D. Young in Pickaway County probate court.

The lease was between William A. Stalter, deceased, and Edna Newhouse for the latter's farm. It was to run from March 1, 1950 to March 1, 1951.

Judge Young also approved applications for transfer of 29 acres in Wayne Township and Lot 5 in New Holland to Arizona Fletcher of Clarksburg Route 1, R. C. Garrison and Goldie Britton of Washington C. H. Route 6, Amy R. Farmer and Mary Davy of New Holland Route 1, and Martha Hosler of New Holland Route 2.

The properties are part of the Ella J. Garrison estate.

matter was stirred up in the press in 1946." He pointed out that he was in Latin America when one shipment of 1,000 pounds of uranium oxide and nitrate was obtained by Russia in March and April, 1943.

Wallace charged that the accusation made by Lewis is "not so much an attack upon me as it is upon the Democratic Party and President Roosevelt."

In summarizing his denial, Wallace said:

"In short, and in fact, I had absolutely nothing to do with any of these licenses. I was not aware that they were being requested. I did know that lend-lease recommended, after consulting with the Manhattan District, that they be issued, and the agency which I headed, the Bureau of Economic Warfare, had no discretionary authority with respect to them."

Roulette Master Giving Away Big Winnings

CANNES, France, Jan. 26—A mysterious young Argentinian who has won thousands of dollars at gambling tables and gave much of it away to losers because he "felt bad," was the talk of the French Riviera today.

Persons frequenting the famed Monte Carlo casino and the one here in Cannes identified him as 25-year-old Lenardo Rosen, a tall, very thin, carelessly-dressed youth constantly accompanied by a beautiful young woman.

Croupiers and habitués of the roulette tables say that Rosen always places large bets on numbers between 20 and 30 and that the spinning ball "behaves like it's bewitched," dropping where Rosen wants it to drop.

In recent nights, Rosen has won about 15 million francs (roughly $42,850) at roulette. Last night in the Cannes casino he won nearly $15,000 and doled out $9,000 to losers. He said: "I felt so badly to see them lose."

A few nights earlier, after winning nearly $23,000 in Monte Carlo, Rosen gave gambling croupiers $200 in tips, with instructions on which numbers to play. The croupiers won $3,245. Rosen always wraps his winnings in a folded newspaper when he finishes playing. The woman with him was identified only as "Madame Alvarez."

Open Window Baffles Police Seeking Burglar

Circleville and Pickaway County lawmen Thursday were baffled by the "open window" case.

Working on a "hot tip" from Columbus Wednesday evening that one of the cooperative associations in either Pickaway, Fairfield or Ross Counties was to be burglarized, local lawmen maintained a vigil until the wee hours in hopes of thwarting the burglars.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Police Chief William F. McCrady went to work immediately on the tip, stationing men in the several cooperative offices here.

Radcliff said that two men were assigned to the Farm Bureau office on East Main street. The men were stationed in the office until 3 a. m. awaiting would-be burglars. None was seen.

However, when the Farm Bureau was opened for business Thursday morning a window was found standing wide open.

The men who had been stationed in the building stated that the window had been closed when they left at about 3 a. m. Wedged as the window was by weather-stripping, they doubted it possible that the wind might have blown it open.

Nothing was reported stolen in the building.

Missing Student Claimed Thief

when he was called back to City Hall by one of his officers.

But in miming no words, McCrady left the long-running squabble between himself and council still hanging—and with the next move up to the city fathers.

That move is scheduled for Feb. 7.

The move will involve the third and final reading of an ordinance which would slash McCrady's salary from $211.75 to $150 a month.

This is the "starvation" move to which McCrady referred.

The "shoving" move referred to the reduction in rank which would come if McCrady was de-throned as chief and made "chief of detectives."

McCrady apparently feels that this is a two jump shove-out. He apparently doubts whether the "chief of detectives" job would last very long, that council would abolish it soon after creating same.

Second Estate Aide Named For Caskey Property

Rebecca J. Caskey has been appointed ancillary administrator with the will annexed of the William E. Caskey estate, total value of which has been estimated at $22,600.

Major portion of the estate is being administered in Kentucky, but since some of the property is located in Ohio an administrator with the will annexed has been appointed to handle affairs here.

In Circleville property belonging to the estate consists of a brick building at 106-108 South Court street, a brick building at 113 West Main street and a brick residence at 145 East High street.

The Caskey will leaves the Circleville properties to two nieces in Kentucky, but stipulates that $150 per month be paid to Rebecca L. Caskey, step-mother of the deceased, and that she have the right to occupy the High street residence rent free during her life. William E. Caskey died in Lexington, Ky., Dec. 11, 1949.

"However, Mrs. McFarland was so interested in having the teeth filled that we made a special effort.

"The job was over practically before the child knew what had happened."

The doctor added that while the practice of filling baby teeth is unusual to a certain extent, Mrs. McFarland was wise in insisting that the work be done.

"For three reasons," pointed out Rickley.

"One, the teeth filled were the first and second deciduous molars, which in most cases will not be replaced by adult teeth until the youngster is nine to 11 years old.

"Two, the deciduous teeth retain space for later permanent teeth and if they are lost the second teeth will be crowded.

"Three, a baby tooth is the same as any other tooth. If it is not cared for it eventually will cause pain and may abscess."

He pointed out that he was in Latin America when one shipment of 1,000 pounds of uranium oxide and nitrate was obtained by Russia in March and April, 1943.

Wallace charged that the accusation made by Lewis is "not so much an attack upon me as it is upon the Democratic Party and President Roosevelt."

In summarizing his denial, Wallace said:

"In short, and in fact, I had absolutely nothing to do with any of these licenses. I was not aware that they were being requested. I did know that lend-lease recommended, after consulting with the Manhattan District, that they be issued, and the agency which I headed, the Bureau of Economic Warfare, had no discretionary authority with respect to them."

Roulette Master Giving Away Big Winnings

CANNES, France, Jan. 26—A mysterious young Argentinian who has won thousands of dollars at gambling tables and gave much of it away to losers because he "felt bad," was the talk of the French Riviera today.

Persons frequenting the famed Monte Carlo casino and the one here in Cannes identified him as 25-year-old Lenardo Rosen, a tall, very thin, carefully-dressed youth constantly accompanied by a beautiful young woman.

Croupiers and habitués of the roulette tables say that Rosen always places large bets on numbers between 20 and 30 and that the spinning ball "behaves like it's bewitched," dropping where Rosen wants it to drop.

In recent nights, Rosen has won about 15 million francs (roughly $42,850) at roulette. Last night in the Cannes casino he won nearly $15,000 and doled out $9,000 to losers. He said:

"I felt so badly to see them lose."

A few nights earlier, after winning nearly $23,000 in Monte Carlo, Rosen gave gambling croupiers $200 in tips, with instructions on which numbers to play. The croupiers won $3,245.

Rosen always wraps his winnings in a folded newspaper when he finishes playing. The woman with him was identified only as "Madame Alvarez."

Open Window Baffles Police Seeking Burglar

Circleville and Pickaway County lawmen Thursday were baffled by the "open window" case.

Working on a "hot tip" from Columbus Wednesday evening that one of the cooperative associations in either Pickaway, Fairfield or Ross Counties was to be burglarized, local lawmen maintained a vigil until the wee hours in hopes of thwarting the burglars.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Police Chief William F. McCrady went to work immediately on the tip, stationing men in the several cooperative offices here.

Radcliff said that two men were assigned to the Farm Bureau office on East Main street. The men were stationed in the office until 3 a. m. awaiting would-be burglars. None was seen.

However, when the Farm Bureau was opened for business Thursday morning a window was found standing wide open.

The men who had been stationed in the building stated that the window had been closed when they left at about 3 a. m. Wedged as the window was by weather-stripping, they doubted it possible that the wind might have blown it open.

Nothing was reported stolen in the building.

Soybean Popularity Booming

Ohio Crop Worth $60 Million Now

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26—Ohio State University agronomists say the soybean deserves a permanent place in Ohio agriculture.

In a new bulletin released this week by the Agricultural Extension Service of the university, they point out that within 30 years the soybean, a newcomer among Ohio field crops, has risen to fourth place in acreage and value.

Total production of soybeans in the state has risen almost steadily from the 230,000 bushels grown in 1924 to the production of 20,592,000 bushels in 1949. Record year in Ohio came in 1943 when 27,468,000 bushels were grown to help supply war-time oil needs.

Soybeans now account for about $60 million of the annual Ohio farm income.

Ohio's "soybean patch" is described by the agronomists as being 939,000 acres in the 25 northwestern counties of the state.

THIS AREA presently produces 71 percent of the state's soybeans. Most of the remaining 29 percent is grown in the western half of Ohio.

Prospects of greatly increased soybean yields are seen by the agronomists. Although 20 bushels is the normal Ohio yield, they predict yields up to 45 bushels for farmers who follow good cultural practices.

Acre yields in Ohio have gained 109 percent in 23 years—from 11.5 bushels in 1926 to 24 in 1949.

"No less than other farm crops," the agronomists said, "the soybean yield depends upon timely planting, conserving moisture, preserving soil tilth and fertility, and planting the right variety."

How farmers can increase yields and fit soybeans into their cropping and land needs are set forth in the new bulletin, "Putting Soybeans into Permanent Farming." Copies of the bulletin are available from county agricultural agents.

IN THE FUTURE, airplane passengers may ride backward for protection against crash injuries as a result of tests made on the rocket sled (above) at Edwards Air Force Base, Muroc, Calif. One of six volunteers is shown being strapped into the seat on the device, called a "human decelerator." Guided by railway tracks the sled is propelled by solid fuel rockets into a series of mechanical brakes which stop it with a force equivalent to that experienced in actual crash landings. When seated in a backward position, the volunteers were able to withstand greater forces than when they were seated in a forward position. (International)

Boy, 4, Burned Because He Was Unruly In Home

MADISON, N. J., Jan. 26—Tiny, underweight Roy Kulberda, 4, his body covered with infected sores and his face grimacing with pain, said:

"I was burned because I was a bad boy."

Roy, a patient in Perth Amboy general hospital, told his heart-wrenching story to Jersey probation authorities and police of Madison Township, N. J.

When he finished his tale of torture, township police and Middlesex County probation authorities arrested his mother, Elizabeth, 23, and his father, Thomas, 24, and charged them with criminal neglect.

The mother claimed her little son had backed into a stove and that she had refused to call a doctor because she wanted to "punish him" for being unruly. Little Roy was covered with infected burns. Two of the sores "were as large as apples," police said.

Baby Chick Losses To Be Lowered

Better Disease Controls Cited

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26—Buyers of baby chicks this year in Ohio can expect fewer losses.

This good news came today from D. D. Moyer, extension specialist in poultry at Ohio State university, who credited disease control and new drugs as being responsible for what he termed, "remarkable progress made during the past few years in improving chick livability."

Pullorum, once a poultryman's nightmare, has been brought under control through the National Poultry Improvement Plan. This emphasized the necessity of eliminating breeder hens that harbor the organism and pass it on to the chick through the egg.

Just a few years ago, Moyer said, at least a third of all baby chicks purchased would die during the first month. Last year, the mortality rate from all causes was less than 2.5 percent in Ohio.

Newcastle disease, which became serious two years ago, is being brought under control by vaccination.

"During 1949," Moyer commented, "thousands of chicks and growing pullets were vaccinated and from the lack of reports of outbreaks in laying flocks, I think we are making real progress in Newcastle control."

HE POINTED to research findings at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station on poultry management as being revolutionary in theory and providing an easy solution to control of coccidiosis, another serious poultry disease.

These experiments have shown that when chicks are kept on old, built-up litter over

RACE BY BYRNES

JAMES F. Byrnes, who has held possibly more high ranking offices than anyone now in public life, wants to add one more to his list. He has been congressman, senator, justice of the Supreme Court, and secretary of state. During the war he was director of economic stabilization and later of war mobilization. He was almost chosen by President Roosevelt as his running mate in 1944. Had the President determined on this choice, Byrnes would have been president. Truly this is an impressive array of offices. Now he wishes to top it off by serving as governor of South Carolina.

He is running as a protest against the trend to "statism," which he detects in Washington, and for which he blames Republicans as well as Democrats. He makes it plain that he does not want to be governor as a stepping stone to further offices. His declaration, whose forthrightness might be copied by other public men, says, "I shall not be a candidate for president or vice-president on the ticket of any party under any circumstances."

Some time ago Byrnes declined to run again for senator because he felt that a new war might be coming soon, and that his unique executive experience would be more valuable in other positions at Washington. By this reasoning he would not wish to tie himself up in the governorship of South Carolina if he did not believe that the international situation had eased, and that war was not imminent in the next two years.

Apart from his political views, Byrnes is possibly the most eminent South Carolinian since John C. Calhoun. Unlike Calhoun, his purpose is to strengthen the United States, not to tear it into sections.

A ONE-BIT PIECE

ALMOST every American knows that two bits is twenty-five cents, but how many ever saw one bit? As a matter of fact a one-bit piece, half the value of a quarter, did exist in old Mexican and Spanish coinage, and from that piece the bit got into American money talk.

Now Representative Wright Patman of Texas has introduced a bill which would add the bit to the actual American coins. This would not only add substance to the common terms of two, four and six bits, but would create the odd numbers between those even figures. Congressman Patman would go farther. He would establish a half-bit piece. This, however, might be less useful than coins worth seven or seven and a half cents and three cents, previously proposed.

With all these suggestions for new coins coming forth, some may win adoption. We need small coins. But if more should be added to the mint list, would we be able to keep any more in our pockets?

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Alger Hiss is not an ordinary person. He has had the advantages of a brilliant education at John Hopkins and Harvard universities; he has been clerk to Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes; he has served in government offices of notable responsibility.

Only 45 years of age at this tragic moment in his life, he had already achieved such exalted positions as being Franklin D. Roosevelt's expert at Yalta; secretary of the San Francisco conference which wrote the charter for the United Nations; president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, his predecessor in that office being so distinguished a person as the late President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university.

Few young men can point to so meteoric a career or to such vast influence at so early an age. Yet, this same Alger Hiss has been convicted of being a liar and a spy; of using his high office and extraordinary opportunities to do harm to his country. Although the charge against him was perjury, the untruthfulness was concerned with an act of espionage. As he was convicted of one, he stands convicted of the other.

It was hard to believe when the charges were first hurled at Hiss, but, mind, they were first hurled at him in 1938 and 1939. Yet the greatest advances that were made in his brilliant career were after Whittaker Chambers had told his story to A. A. Berle, then assistant secretary of state, who repeated them to Dean Acheson and others in the State Department.

In fact, the Far Eastern policy came under Hiss's influence after Dr. J. B. Matthews of the Dies Committee handed to the Department of Justice the list of members of the Harold Ware Communist Cell formed to infiltrate our government—a list which included the name of Hiss.

At the time that Hiss and his associates started their operations, this country was not allied in war with Soviet Russia. After a long wait of 16 years, Roosevelt altered the American policy and recognized Russia, which had agreed not to interfere in our domestic affairs, an agreement immediately broken by the Russians. During the period when Hiss, Chambers and Henry Julian Wadleigh were stealing files from the State Department, our relations with Russia were uncertain; during the period when the Dies Committee discovered the list of the Ware cell, Russia was actually in alliance with Nazi Germany, the Hitler-Stalin alliance, which made possible World War II.

Perhaps it was because of this background, that no attempt was made during either Hiss trial to say that his actions were guided by national policy. Yet, the fact is that every man in the Ware cell did become an important figure in the American government, influencing policies which have left a permanent impress on this nation. Perhaps none of them can now be indicted, although they can be held for contempt of a congressional committee or for perjury.

DIET AND HEALTH

One Time Doctor Says "Never"

By HERMAN N. DUNDESEN, M.D.

PEOPLE who are bothered—and who bother others—by the bad habit of belching often think their trouble is due to the formation of gas within the stomach. In medicine the word "never" is seldom accurate but this is, nevertheless, a truly rare situation.

The acid secreted by the stomach helps to keep foods from fermenting and forming gases. Now and then certain people may lack this acid and, in these cases, small amounts of gas may be produced, particularly if there is delay in emptying the stomach.

Cancer of Stomach

The belching of gas which has a bad odor may only now and then be a symptom of a cancer of the stomach; hence, if this symptom occurs in middle-aged or elderly persons, immediate study by a physician must be made.

In the great majority of cases, the gas brought up by belching is only swallowed air. A great deal of air is swallowed when a person eats too rapidly. If an X-ray of the stomach is taken, a bubble of air is seen in the stomach as a general rule. If too much air gets into the stomach, there is an uncomfortable feeling of fullness which is relieved by belching.

Baking Soda

Many persons have found that taking baking soda relieves this feeling of fullness. It does so by forming another gas known as carbon dioxide which in turn, produces the belching.

Some persons are able to belch at will, but this does no good because repeated belching is associated with further swallowing of air and this will only increase the discomfort.

Excessive air swallowing may also occur when too much saliva is present in the mouth. It occurs in excessively nervous people and is also present in disorders affecting the duodenum or first part of the small intestine, such as ulcer or gastritis. It is a common symptom of gallbladder disease. In certain types of heart disease, belching is often present.

Swallowing Air

Sometimes the air swallowing gets to be a habit. In such cases, the belching may start early in the morning and continue throughout the day. This is a habit which can be broken.

Keeping the mouth open by putting in a large object which prevents swallowing will be helpful.

However, whenever repeated belching occurs there is always need for a careful study to make sure that it is not due to some disease of the stomach, bowel, or gallbladder.

Try, Stop Me

A newcomer in town, relates John Strachey, began to frequent a certain bar, and noted that one shabby character was propped up at the bar morning, noon and night. A reformer at heart, the stranger accosted the bar-fly and asked, "Mister, how long have you been drinking like this?" "More'n forty years," answered the bar-fly proudly.

"Tsk, tsk," clucked the newcomer, producing pencil and paper. "Look, here's the amount you've been spending for liquor every day. Do you realize that if you'd saved that money, you might own a fine building like this one?"

"Listen," said the victim, "do you indulge?"

"Not a drop," vowed the newcomer.

CHAPTER FORTY-FOUR
TIMOTHY sat down beside Susan, his manner infinitely gentle as he leaned toward her and said, "What's all this about, Sue? Do you want to tell me?"

She clasped her hands. "Yes," she said, after a moment, her voice tight. "Yes, I—I think I do. I know I do. Everything's so..." She gestured helplessly.

"Go ahead."

So she told him. She told him everything about that evening. When she had finished, he said abruptly, "I've just thought of something."

"What?"

"Tonight the Council meets. And Lester's a councilman."

"You mean they wouldn't have had to leave the house to talk?"

He nodded.

"Tim."

"What?"

"Which way were they going when you saw them?"

"Toward the Inn."

"They must have gone there then, because they were afraid Lester might come back." She stood up. "Let's go to the Inn and meet them!"

"You want to?"

She nodded.

"Okay."

They stepped into the darkness of the night and she called out to Don in the summerhouse. "If Gerry turns up before I get back, tell him I've gone to the village for some ice cream. Tim's taking me!"

"Okay." Don answered. "Get plenty. Chocolate."

Timothy, behind the wheel, turned to Susan next to him. "Gerry won't like this, you know."

"I know. But I don't like what he's doing, either."

He dropped his hand on hers and squeezed it briefly. The next moment the engine was purring and they rolled down the drive to the hill road.

Susan sat without speaking. She had suggested this on impulse, thinking vaguely that it was a protective measure for Gerry because if Lester really didn't like him and ever found out that he and Alicia had been at the Inn together, it would be better if she could say that she and Tim were there, too. Anyway, there was relief in doing something rather than nothing. And there was solid comfort in Tim's calm, quiet companionship. Suddenly she realized how much she had missed him.

They came to the Inn and stopped. There was no car in the driveway. Susan said, "They must have gone back to her house then."

He nodded. "Now what?"

"I don't know."

Do you want to telephone from here and find out?"

"I guess so."

She felt curiously bereft of all power of thought. Whatever Tim decided was all right. She, herself, was living in a state of suspension. It was very queer.

He got out with her and they went up the steps and into the Inn. Herman, as usual, was not around. But on the desk were two white envelopes, both in Gerry's handwriting, one addressed to Herman, the other to Susan. She ripped it open with trembling fingers, then thrust it into Timothy's hand.

"You read it. Please!"

He took it nearer the light. Susan followed and stood like a statue listening.

"Dear Susan,

"I don't know how to tell you this but here it is. I'm going away with Alicia. We're borrowing Don's car to get to New York and will leave it and the key in it at the parking lot on 57th street near 5th avenue. I'll mail the claim check back as soon as possible."

"Everything's finished for me here, Susan. You were right that I shouldn't have gone to-night. But I did go. And Lester found me there and we had quite a fight. But I won."

"He was hurt," Susan interrupted. "That's why she was driving."

"Perhaps."

"Go on."

He continued.

"—but I won. Lester's knocked out but he'll be all right. And you mustn't worry about me because I'll be all right, too. Alicia is very good to me. And good for me."

"But you, little Susan, are too good for me. I guess I've known it all along. Anyway, it's clear to me now what Dr. Morgan meant that Sunday morning in the chapel at your school when he said something about love's 'crucifying' you and at the same time 'crowning' you. I can't remember the exact words. But I do remember there was that—and something about though love teaches you pain, it also gives you—no, heals you with new understanding."

"Well, loving you has crowned me, Susan. I'll never forget you. But giving you up has healed the fever you were in my blood."

"Think kindly of me if you can."

Gerry."

There were tears running down Susan's cheeks when Timothy finished.

"Oh, Tim!" she said, her voice broken. "I never helped him at all. I wanted to so much. And I never did!"

He put his arm around her and led her out to the car. In the darkness there, with his arm still around her, he answered her.

"You did help him, Sue. You helped him find his own level, his own life, his own way of happiness. It might not be the level or the life or the happiness you would choose for him, but it's his, and so you have helped him a great deal."

She looked up at him uncertainly. "I never thought of it like that."

"Well, think of it like that now. Without you, he wouldn't have risen as far as he did. He might easily have sunk back. But because of you, and now with Alicia, he will be all right."

"Do you really think so?"

"I know so." He took out his handkerchief and dried her tears. "Don't you see? You helped him discover your true value and his own true desires. You gave him vision. It was a wonderful gift, Susan."

In the starlight she saw his steadfast eyes and his firm mouth and the devotion that illumined his whole face, and she put up her hand and laid it along his cheek.

"Thank you, Tim," she said softly. "Maybe—maybe he gave me vision, too."

THE STORY that Lester told spread like wildfire, of course. And the Kings and the Parks came straight from the Pocomo to be with Susan through this trying time.

"I always knew he was no good," Elizabeth said with vindictive triumph in her voice. "I always knew Ella was easily hoodwinked! As for Alicia—Well, I must admit that was a surprise, though I've never trusted her. Anyway, she's got about what she deserves, I guess."

Frank said nothing though a light had broken in his mind. Audrey looked at her daughter and ventured uncertain comfort. "—aring, you may be proud and happy that you lived up to your beliefs. I know I am proud of you."

But it was the Judge who came the closest to reaching Susan's heart. He said, "The love that you and Gerry knew dropped seeds in many unguessed places whose flowering you may never see. But their blossoming, I promise you, will make the world a much more fragrant place."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

SELECTING of a sound opening lead is of vital importance against a large proportion of all contracts. That's why so much study has been given to it by developers of winning tactics through the years. But even the most efficient leaders know that any one time their keenness may prove of no avail. In fact, what should be the best lead may prove to be the worst and what should be the worst may prove the best. That should not make the ambitious player disdainful of his knowledge and cause him to become careless in the matter. In the long run his soundness will pay.

Suppose you just listened to that bidding and had no knowledge of South's hand. Would you not consider that the best lead of all should be the unbid major suit, hearts. And wouldn't you say that the worst lead should be diamonds? That lead would usually help the declarer to establish the low cards of the dummy's suit before its side re-entries were impaired and before the defenders got under way with their own suit. In between these best and worst leads would come the two black suits.

In the case of this deal, however, telephones can be jammed we think we will start phoning Mr. Berne now. If he's real busy we'll know how it works.

Social Security Benefits May Be Greatly Broadened

Administration Sees Early Senate Action on Measure

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Capitol Hill veterans predict that one of the first pieces of important legislation to be completed by the second session of the 81st Congress will be a bill broadening Social Security benefits.

The House last summer passed a measure extending coverage and increasing old-age and survivors' insurance payments. Administration leaders are certain the measure will get early and favorable Senate consideration.

This law would add some six million persons to the Social Security roster.

Some observers expect the administration to press for immediate pensions—with the "asking" figure perhaps as high as $100 a month—for retired persons.

However, consensus is that there is little likelihood of passage of such a proposal.

Congress will take up a plan to establish national standards for unemployment insurance, and chances for enactment are said to be good.

Pressure for the compulsory health insurance program, so bitterly opposed by foes of socialized medicine, has lessened. The Democratic leadership is expected to compromise by seeking to obtain passage of some of the less controversial features of the program.

SHIPS, TIMBER, HUNGER—Senator Owen Brewster (R), Maine, believes that as a result of the devaluation of the British pound and other European currency, Democratic trade policies are about to get their first test in 15 years.

Brewster says that first the war and then the depression prevented the Roosevelt-Truman reciprocal trade program from getting a normal test.

Now, the senator explains, the country is about to be flooded by European goods. He says this is the result both of devaluation of European currencies and the lack of tariffs on many goods coming into this country. As an illustration, he says that a dozen ships bringing wood pulp from Sweden put in at Maine ports recently. He continues:

"I think the country will feel the impact of all this next summer and foreign trade will be a major issue in the congressional elections."

Brewster proposes "proper protection" for American industry and farmers. He says this would mean "higher tariffs in some instances."

The senator contends that imports of wood pulp from Sweden have already hurt Maine farmers. "A lot of them will go hungry this winter because of reduced sales of timber," he contends.

● SUPERSONIC SLIP—Somebody slipped in leaking to a reporter that an American plane had flown nearly 2,000 miles an hour. The plane will fly that fast, but the break was premature.

Craft involved is the Bell X-1, first plane to fly faster than sound. This took place in 1947 when Air Force Capt. Chuck Yeager piloted the plane at a speed then termed "several hundred" miles faster than sound speed of 763 miles an hour.

Recently it was revealed that the speed was 963 miles per hour.

The X-1 will be capable of much greater speed, 2,600-miles-an-hour reported, when the turbo-pumps are installed.

● SURE FOOTED PRESIDENT—In his recent trip to his Independence, Mo., home President Truman revealed himself to be an expert at walking in ice.

Just before he arrived, a three and one-half inch snow had thawed a bit, then caused the streets of Independence with ice.

The president, however, took his accustomed morning walks without over shoes, while reporters, wearing rubbers, slipped and scrambled behind him.

Census Due To Outline Home Needs

Housing Authority Awaits Survey

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 — The Census Bureau's national housing survey in April is going to play an important part in guiding future federal housing policy.

Officials say they are anxiously awaiting results of the census to help them judge the housing requirements of the nation.

In addition, census figures on local communities will fit into decisions on future money allocations made under the federal public housing program.

Census is undertaking the housing study in connection with its regular decennial check on the population.

It believes that the number of American dwelling units has risen by at least eight million to a level of 45 million since 1940 when the last housing check was made.

Meanwhile, Public Housing Administration Commissioner John Egan reports his agency is holding down allocations under public housing to a "safe margin" until census completes the study and makes public its findings.

FOR THE FIRST two years of the federal housing operation officials will rely on the estimates made by local authorities and revised figures of the 1940 census.

After that, however, the bureau's new figures will be the guidebook for further allocations under the long-range six-year program.

A good indication of stepped-up home building in the Spring is given in preliminary figures on loan applications made to the Federal Housing Administration last month.

Close to 60,000 applications were filed and this was about 23 percent above November and much higher than figures for the same period in 1948.

FHA lending accounts for only about one-third of all home financing and officials add that most of the December loan applications will be spelled out in construction next March.

Jury Nearing Testimony In Girl's Trial

BRIDGEPORT, Jan. 26 — A jury of mothers and fathers who solemnly vowed to judge by the evidence and not their hearts, hears the first state witness today in the "mercy killing" trial of Carol Ann Paught.

The beginning of testimony against the 21-year-old Stamford, Conn., girl, described as devoutly religious, awaits the selection of the last regular juror and two alternates.

These will join eight "sympathy-free" middle-aged and elderly women and three men already in the jury box in Bridgeport superior court.

The eleven jurors were seated during the first two days of trial only after the most careful probing by both defense and prosecution for bias either for or against the statuesque Carol, a college senior.

Two panels of 45 veniremen were exhausted in selecting the first eleven jurors to try her for the admitted slaying of her cancer-stricken policeman father.

Looking Ahead

By George Benson
President
Harding College

Ben Franklin's old wisdom: "A penny saved is a penny earned" had a great part in building America. In fact, it made enough sense to become a part of America. Our thriftiness contributed wonderfully to building this land of ours, and the folks who saved their pennies had a lot to do with it.

You can count over most of the great companies that serve us so well today, and behind nearly all of them you will discover a history of saving and thrift that made the original idea possible.

But I say that saving money was one time a good philosophy. That is because it was practiced. I would be just as good today, and would go a long way toward creating the jobs and opportunities upon which the future of this nation must depend—if the philosophy of saving were put to more use.

But saving and thrift have today fallen into dishonor. Today, the man who thinks of saving his money and then of investing those savings is likely to be called a foolish man.

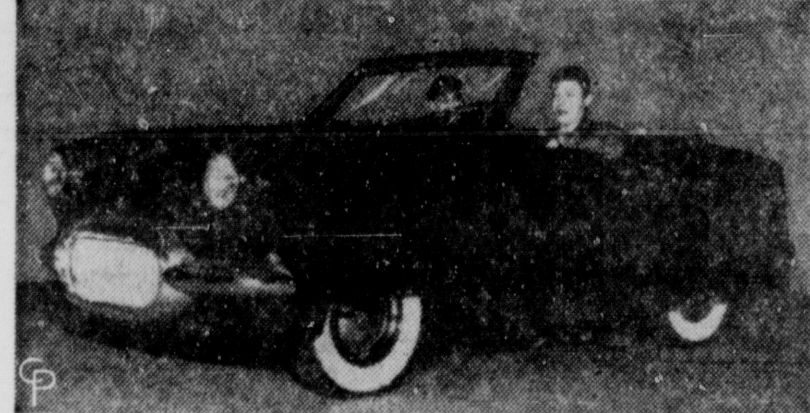

PEOPLE WHO know facts can call such a man foolish. There are two reasons for this attitude.

First: it is nearly impossible to save money. Government taxing policies and government discouragement of private thrift make it a well-nigh impossible feat for the few people who have "investment size" incomes to save anything at all. So why try?

Second: there's not sufficient incentive to invest. Heavy corporation and income taxes make earnings from investments so low that very few of those who

Happy Is The Day When Backache Goes Away . . .

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

SOME AUTO industry executives say there's no use trying to make an under-$1,000 car because the public wouldn't want one that could be made at that price, but Nash is willing to try. Here's what Nash unveiled in New York with announcement they could be made to sell for "$1,000 or less" if sales went to 100,000 a year. It's a two-passenger convertible designed to use low-horsepower foreign motor. Car is 12 feet, one inch long; four feet, five inches high; five feet, two inches wide; 84-inch wheelbase. do save will take the risk involved in putting new money into industry.

The people of this nation are rapidly forgetting what those habits of personal thrift, of laying it up for the rainy day, have meant in the growth and progress of the nation.

And this is true despite the fact that a dollar of private investment is 14 times more effective in creating jobs than a dollar of government money. When money is put into business it goes to work, benefitting everyone. But money taken from business and investors is a great drag on the whole nation's welfare.

America was built by dreamers, however. We can give most of the credit to those practical men and women who had ideas. It was either their own hard earned dollars or the savings of others of like courage, that made those dreams come true.

IF THERE was any gamble, it was simply the risk they dared place upon their own ideas and abilities. They had the necessary courage and vision. They had enough incentive to engage in enterprise. In a word, that is the philosophy of free enterprise.

May America's philosophy always be thus. We must know and understand the meaning of thrift. More than that, we cannot afford to penalize those who would save money, by any national policy or practice. Savings put to work, in the form of capital for new and growing enterprises, must continue to be our best insurance for prosperity and full employment. My hope is that we shall become a nation of thrifty people. This would do much to preserve our nation.

Pilots Told Go Slow On Drug

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—Anti-histamine drugs may be fine to stop colds, but the Civil Aeronautics Board wants airplane pilots to stay away from them unless they are sure the cold remedy won't make them sleepy.

CAB said that "a few susceptible individuals" suffer drowsiness, dizziness and other reactions from the drugs, and added: "It would be dangerous for such individuals to operate aircraft while taking the preparation."

Pickaway County's Few Scots Observing Birth Of Poet Robert Burns

Columbus Dance Is Due Saturday

At least one bonnie lass in Pickaway County is observing this week as a solemn holiday. The lass is a native of Scotland.

Wednesday was the birthday of that great Scottish poet, Robert Burns, but honors are being paid all week.

Clannish to the Nth degree, those of Scottish descent revere the name of Robert Burns. And many of them living in Ohio will help stage one of the biggest memorial birthday celebrations of all time Saturday night.

A few—and there are not too many from these parts who can rightly claim either they or their ancestors were born on the heather or Highlands of Scotland—will trek from Pickaway County to Columbus for that gala affair.

Heading the list will be Mrs. Arthur McCoard of North Pickaway street—a bonnie lass born, raised and schooled in Robert Burns' native haunts.

Others, whose ancestors came from Scotland, include Mrs. J. O. Eagleson, Mrs. Stanley Croman and the latter's niece, Miss Betty McCoy.

Mrs. McCoard, at least, is making definite plans to attend the Columbus celebration. It is put on by Daughters of Scotland in the Chittenden hotel. It will feature a dinner dance, bagpipes, Highland Fling and all.

And a part—very important part—of the ceremony will be the piping in of the Haggis, a traditional dish served with pomp and ceremony. . . . and on a silver platter at that.

Few of the male guests at the ceremony are expected to be garbed in the old Scotland—in kilts, etc.

But the Scottish atmosphere and accents will be there.

Celebration of Robert Burns' birthday is another New Year's Eve to a Scot. The clan claims Burns' birthday is one of the most widely-celebrated birthdays in the world—second only to that of Jesus Christ.

Probably is considering the large number of Scots scattered over the globe—combined with their natural clannishness and pride.

Saturday night's celebration will last until the wee hours of Sunday. Bagpipe music will top the list of entertainment.

There will be some speeches. Dr. James Fullington, head of Ohio State university's English department, will give the main address.

Gov. and Mrs. Frank Lausche, while not Scots, will be honored guests.

And the Scots of Pickaway County will dance the Highland with Scots from all over the state. They take their celebration seriously, want to sing praises to Scotland as did Robert Burns whose own wish is perpetually quoted:

"That I for poor auld Scotland's sake
"some useful plan or book to make,
Or sing a sang at least."

Country Club Plans Party

Open House has been planned for Pickaway Country Club members and their guests Sunday night.

John P. Moore, general social chairman, said Thursday the affair will be an informal getto-

Research Progress

Research into the mysteries of infantile paralysis has made definite progress against this devastating disease. Scientists working under grants made by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis have overcome one of the major obstacles on the road toward obtaining a polio vaccine. They are now able for the first time to grow polio virus in test-tubes, free from nervous tissue—a necessary step toward making the vaccine. To date the National Foundation has made research grants totalling almost eleven million dollars to push the research, battle against polio. Drucie's Big Wedding Tops In Capital Today

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—Governments may fall and international relations tremble today but as far as Washington is concerned this is Drucie's wedding day and that's all that matters.

Everyone will be there from President Truman and Vice-President Barkley on down when pretty Drucie Snyder walks down the aisle in shimmering bridal white to become the bride of Maj. John Ernest Horton of Wichita, Kans.

CHURCHILL TOUCH SEEN

Conservative Manifesto Sets Scene For Election

LONDON, Jan. 26—The British Conservative Party is out in the open with its pre-election manifesto today and political experts are trying hard to evaluate just what effect it will have upon the voters.

Despite the fact the document bore clear evidence of Winston Churchill's expert hand, its text is mainly a repetition of previous Conservative promises to cancel out inequities allegedly prevailing under the socialistic system.

It also pledges that the Conservatives, if elected, will put an end to present top-heavy bureaucracy without increasing unemployment.

The manifesto confirmed belief among most non-partisan observers that the "floating vote" will decide the issue on Feb. 23.

They maintain that the actual solid "core" of both the Conservative and Labor Parties has altered but little in the last five years.

THE ELEMENT held responsible for the last election victory for the Laborites consists of the more or less independent, non-party people.

They vote the way they feel like it at the last minute and are usually inclined to dislodge any government that has been in office longer than normally.

Women are important in this category. Also vital is the so-called middle class. Conservative spokesmen say that these white collar people, while receiving some benefits from the labor regime, have shouldered a threefold increase in living costs.

According to The London News Chronicle, working with the British Institute of Public Opinion, the Conservative lead in the straw vote has dropped from 10 percent to 2½ percent since last November.

The Conservative manifesto, on which Churchill has been working feverishly since he cut short a landscape-painting vacation at Funchal in the Madeira Islands, is designed to recoup these reported losses.

Its emphasis on a speed-up in housing probably will get the greatest reception.

Another interesting issue raised by the manifesto is the "job freeze" policy of the Socialist government.

CONSERVATIVES claim that under Socialist influence the laws have taken such a form that within the last 10 years they have prevented Britons from

COLOR TELEVISION reception is demonstrated by Forrest Kilby, 27, Roselle, N. J., electrician, with 30 cents worth of red, green and blue cellophane and an old phonograph motor, an achievement which has New York TV executives shaking their heads in bewilderment. Kilby rigged up the unit to receive experimental programs being transmitted from New York to Washington in the race to produce color TV acceptable to the FCC. (International Soundphoto)

Local Youth Enters Hospital

Proceeds of a chicken dinner given in St. Paul AME church last Sunday were used to help defray hospital costs for a Circleville youngster.

He is George L. Johnson Jr. The 13-year-old boy is in Room 405 in White Cross hospital, Columbus, where he is to undergo surgery to correct a leg disorder.

Dry Forces Suffer Serious Setback In Drive

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26—Ohio's dry forces have suffered a new and possibly final setback in their fight to compel the state legislature to adopt a county-wide option law.

Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy ruled that the petitions they presented to Secretary of State Charles F. Sweeney to initiate the proposal before the Ohio Legislature were invalid because of an insufficiency of signatures in Montgomery County.

Duffy held also that the circulators of the petitions are not entitled to a grace period to acquire new signatures because the fault lay in the petitions themselves and not merely in a lack of a sufficient number of valid signatures.

Unless Duffy's ruling is upset by the courts, it means the dry forces lose all the effort they have made to date in 43 other counties and must start circulating petitions anew.

Under Ohio law an initiated bill may be presented to the legislature on the valid signatures of three percent of the total number of voters who cast ballots for governor at the last election.

The names must come from at least 44 counties, each of which must have a minimum of 1½ percent of the vote cast for governor.

When such a bill is validly presented the legislature is required

Coal Shortage Report Made

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—Rep. Breen, (D) Ohio, disclosed today that he has advised President Truman that a "coal crisis" exists in Montgomery, Butler and Preble Counties in his state.

The former Dayton mayor declared in a statement that he had received many letters and telegrams from residents in the Southwestern Ohio district requesting his aid in halting the current coal shortage.

$20,000 Fire Hits Landmark

CLEVELAND, Jan. 26—A $20,000 fire almost completely destroyed a 50-year-old frame home in suburban Richmond Heights last night.

More than 1,000 persons watched to act upon it within four months. If it does not enact the proposal into law, new petitions may be circulated to carry the fight directly to the people at the next election.

It was this same procedure which the backers of colored oleo margarine followed.

Pickaway County's Few Scots Observing Birth Of Poet Robert Burns

Columbus Dance Is Due Saturday

At least one bonnie lass in Pickaway County is observing this week as a solemn holiday. The lass is a native of Scotland.

Wednesday was the birthday of that great Scottish poet, Robert Burns, but honors are being paid all week.

Clannish to the Nth degree, those of Scottish descent revere the name of Robin Burns. And many of them living in Ohio will help stage one of the biggest memorial birthday celebrations of all time Saturday night.

A few—and there are not too many from these parts who can rightly claim either they or their ancestors were born on the heather or Highlands of Scotland—will trek from Pickaway County to Columbus for that gala affair.

Heading the list will be Mrs. Arthur McCoard of North Pickaway street—a bonnie lass born, raised and schooled in Robert Burns' native haunts.

Others, whose ancestors came from Scotland, include Mrs. J. O. Eagleson, Mrs. Stanley Croman and the latter's niece, Miss Betty McCoys.

Mrs. McCoard, at least, is making definite plans to attend the Columbus celebration. It is put on by Daughters of Scotland in the Chittenden hotel. It will feature a dinner dance, bagpipes, Highland Fling and all.

And a part—very important part—of the ceremony will be the piping in of the Haggis, a traditional dish served with pomp and ceremony... and on a silver platter at that.

Few of the male guests at the ceremony are expected to be garbed in lauld Scotland—in kilts, etc.

But the Scottish atmosphere and accents will be there.

Celebration of Robert Burns' birthday is another New Year's Eve to a Scot. The clan claims Burns' birthday is one of the most widely-celebrated birthdays in the world—second only to that of Jesus Christ.

Probably is considering the large number of Scots scattered over the globe—combined with their natural clannishness and pride.

Saturday night's celebration will last until the wee hours of Sunday. Bagpipe music will top the list of entertainment.

There will be some speeches. Dr. James Fullington, head of Ohio State university's English department, will give the main address.

Gov. and Mrs. Frank Lausche, while not Scots, will be honored guests.

And the Scots of Pickaway County will dance the Highland with Scots from all over the state. They take their celebration seriously, want to sing praises to Scotland as did Robert Burns whose own wish is perpetually quoted:

"That I for poor auld Scotland's sake
"some useful plan or book to make,
Or sing a sang at least,"

Research Progress

Research into the mysteries of infantile paralysis has made definite measurable progress against this devastating disease. Scientists working under grants made by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis have overcome one of the major obstacles on the road toward obtaining a polio vaccine. They are now able for the first time to grow polio virus in test-tubes, free from nervous tissue—a necessary step toward making the vaccine. To date the National Foundation has made research grants totalling almost eleven million dollars to push the research battle against polio. You can help win this battle by contributing to the March of Dimes today.

Drucie's Big Wedding Tops In Capital Today

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—Governments may fall and international relations tremble today but as far as Washington is concerned this is Drucie's wedding day and that's all that matters.

In addition to the President and First Lady, the vice-president and his bride, just about everyone you can think of in government will be on hand for the 5 p. m. wedding in stately Washington Cathedral.

Labor Ills Seen Even On Farms

Employers Become More Selective

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 26—All the labor-management problems aren't in industry.

Many a farmer must iron out troubles with hired labor to keep his 1950 production program in high gear, says an article in the current Capper's Farmer.

"Like any other employer, the farmer must find his help, hire it, hold it and keep it producing when on the job," says a story in the farm magazine.

"The farm-labor bill is an enormous charge against gross farm income. Last year the monthly average number of hired farm workers in the United States was 2,317,100. In the last decade, cash wages paid to hired farm help have shown an increase each year. With a downward trend in prices of farm products, the problem of obtaining greater value for the farm-labor dollar must be faced.

"World War II focused attention on farm labor," the story continues. "In the face of the great manpower shortage, farmers took any help available from prisoners of war to high school girls."

"NOW FARMERS can be more selective. Still, there just isn't any force of wholly satisfactory workers. Each individual has certain abilities and shortcomings."

The story says that an excellent farm production program may fail or be only partially successful if hired help gets hurt, quits or doesn't work hard enough.

Farmers as employers should provide safe working conditions and master skills and techniques of handling workers. The man who knows people will have less labor trouble, the story says.

Rechurched Rural America Said Top Need

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26—"Rechurched rural America" was proposed here last night by a onetime circuit-riding minister in Pennsylvania.

Dr. Mark A. Dawbar, retiring co-executive secretary of the National Home Mission Council, told 1,000 church leaders at a congress on home missions:

"By rechurched rural America, we do not mean simply the creation of new church buildings or the consolidation of small churches into larger units, although both of these interests are involved.

"We have in mind a comprehensive program of religious education, social and recreational activities."

Reason the bicyclist is wearing a mask is, well, you know how dead fish get. Some days before it was washed ashore a Norwegian tanker reported hitting a submerged mass. Supposedly the ship struck the creature, tore off its flippers and it bled to death before being washed up on the beach. (International)

Ball And Chain System Flops

GREENUP, Ky., Jan. 26—Greenup's new ball and chain system didn't work so well.

Charles Henson, sentenced for intoxication, nonchalantly tossed the ball over his shoulder and walked off.

Later the ball and chain were found—the ankle bracelets broken.

The first to be assigned to the revived chain gang by Police Judge W. S. Sturgill, Henson can expect to be charged with destruction of public property. Sturgill promised to take the matter to the grand jury.

Mine Owner Free On Bond

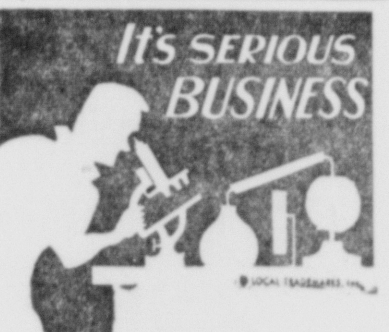

GALLIPOLIS, Jan. 26—Uri Swisher, a Cheshire coal mine operator, is free on $300 bond today pending his trial on a charge of beating a United Mine Workers organizer.

Swisher pleaded innocent here yesterday to the charge. Joe Kostecka of Bellare, the UMW organizer, claimed he suffered a fractured skull when he was assaulted by three men in December.

as a national officer, Dr. Dawbar declared:

"Our inescapable obligation is to establish new standards of working together as denominations. We must set aside more of our denominational programs and do more things jointly."

Earlier, Dr. Jacob Avery Long, professor of Christian social ethics at San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo, Cal., called for Protestant groups to put "real teeth" into church planning agreements. He urged the abolishment of "denominational rivalries."

GOP Primary Governor Race Thins To Pair

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26—The Republican primary race for the right to oppose Governor Lausche's bid for reelection in November boiled down to a two-entrant contest today.

The withdrawal Tuesday of Former Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, now practicing law in Cleveland, left State Treasurer Don H. Ebricht in the favored role for the GOP nomination, with Columbus' youthful mayor, James A. Rhodes, his only seriously-considered opposition.

The favorite's mantle went to the state treasurer partly because of the declaration of Herbert that he would support Ebricht, and partly because his is the better-known name among Republicans statewide.

There is a third declared entry—Former Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel of Cincinnati—but most observers give him little chance despite his long series of wins before his defeat in 1948 by Secretary of State Charles F. Sweeney, Wakeman Democrat.

In fact, Hummel reportedly is growing so lukewarm toward his own chances that he is considering filing again as a candidate for the nomination for secretary of state instead of governor.

Hummel was not available for comment, but the coming week will tell the tale. The deadline for filing petitions is next Wednesday.

AKRON, Jan. 26—Residents of suburban Tallmadge have voted to keep their village in one piece. Some 882 persons turned out to vote, 418 to split into a village and township and 464 against secession.

An Ohio village, under state law, automatically becomes a city when it has more than 5,000

The elections were held at the insistence of secessionists who feared the status of city would mean increased civic responsibility and taxes.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By SENATOR ROBERT A. TAFT

During the month of January, the Senate will consider the bill to establish a Fair Employment Practices Commission and possibly also the federal anti-lynching bill. These bills are part of the so-called civil rights program which has become a slogan without any clear idea of exactly what it covers. As I see it, it is intended to enable men to enforce more effectively their constitutional rights and to reduce discrimination. Undoubtedly, there is such discrimination against Negroes in many parts of the United States.

The most serious discrimination, I think, is in employment, and rather more in the North than in the South—that is to say, the jobs open to Negroes are limited in number and character.

They are more likely to be laid off first when a depression occurs, and they are the last to be put back to work. Also, there are parts of the country where they are not permitted to vote and where any effort to insist on certain constitutional rights brings a threat of violence.

I feel that the poll tax is used to prevent the Negroes voting in the six states where it remains, and I have always supported a bill to abolish the poll tax as a condition of voting in national elections. I have also supported a federal anti-lynching bill such as that now on our Senate calendar.

To deal with the problem of discrimination in employment, I have advocated the setting up of a Fair Employment Practices Commission to begin with a study of the whole problem. I believe that the condition can be greatly improved on a study and co-operative basis.

THE FEPC existing during the war was able to improve greatly the industrial condition of the colored people, though it had no enforcement powers. Such a Commission, after studying an industrial city and determining what the situation is, could call all the employers together and lay out a definite plan for increasing the number of jobs open to Negroes and also for improving the grade of such jobs. I believe all the larger employers, with the backing of the President would go along and set an example to the others.

I have been opposed to setting up a great federal organization to pass on the possible prejudices involved in any one of the 60 million employment relationships in the United States.

It would subject millions of employers to arbitrary action by some federal board.

That board would have to determine in each case the motive of an employer in turning down an applicant for work; and, because motive is a question of fact, there would practically be no appeal to the courts. In my opinion, the federal government is no proper agency to deal directly with 140 million individuals in this country, or to try to offer a legal enforcement remedy for all their problems.

In considering the rights of the minorities, we must also consider the rights of the several million employers who are responsible for constantly increasing our production and standard of living.

IT CERTAINLY is a serious deprivation of liberty to say to a man that he must employ someone who he may consider to be unfitted or perhaps entirely incompetent for the particular job, or prove the validity of his opinion in court.

Furthermore, the effort of the federal government to deal with all these millions of cases is bound to create bitter feeling and, in my opinion, increase race feeling and prejudice rather than to remove it.

Whatever civil rights bills are proposed, I believe very strongly that the proponents have a right to have the bills voted on in the Senate. I have supported cloture, or limitation of debate,

Farm Production Last Year Stays At 1948 Level

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—Farm production for sale and home consumption of all commodities combined stayed at the record 1948 level during 1949.

The Agriculture Department said the record was kept running despite the fact that neither livestock nor crops, taken separately, was at record production levels.

Livestock was three percent below the 1948 level—seven below the 1944 peak—and crops dropped off four percent from the 1948 peak during 1949.

And, the department added, farmers' cash receipts from marketings during January will reach about $2.2 billion.

When the final January tallies are in, the department expects cash receipts to have dipped seasonally from December for a 10 percent slice from receipts in January 1949.

Final figures will show that although the volume of marketings this month were about the same as a year ago, cash receipts will be lower due to lower prices.

Rains Bring Work For City

Recent rains have resulted in a heavy workout for Circleville service department.

According to John Neuding, service director, the department has been kept busy spreading cinders and gravel over unpaved streets "to keep people out of the mud."

He said most of the work has been in the south and north ends of the city, adding that two trucks have been in use hauling the cinders and gravel.

Come In and Browse Around You're Welcome

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Give Us Back Our Sidewalks, Slim!

I wrote that over an article in the Clarion last week, but I didn't like doing it. After all, the man it was aimed at—Slim Henderson—is a good friend of mine.

Slim came into quite a windfall last month, and bought the old Clarke place. The deed gave him title to all the land—right down to the street. Then Slim started to take up the sidewalk to make his lawn look better.

I felt it wasn't fair to the town and said so in my article. Next morning Slim comes around and wants to know what I mean—getting folks riled against him. I felt ornery myself, and we had quite a set-tover the whole business.

From where I sit, that was foolish. Once we'd cooled off (over lunch and a bottle of beer at Andy's Tavern), Slim decided the sidewalks should stay—for the common good and I promised next time I'd take a good look at the other fellow's point of view before writing any articles about him!

CHURCHILL TOUCH SEEN

Conservative Manifesto
Sets Scene For Election

LONDON, Jan. 26—The British Conservative Party is out in the open with its pre-election manifesto today and political experts are trying hard to evaluate just what effect it will have upon the voters.

Despite the fact the document bore clear evidence of Winston Churchill's expert hand, its text is mainly a repetition of previous Conservative promises to cancel out inequities allegedly prevailing under the socialistic system.

It also pledges that the Conservatives, if elected, will put an end to present top-heavy bureaucracy without increasing unemployment.

The manifesto confirmed belief among most non-partisan observers that the "floating vote" will decide the issue on Feb. 23.

They maintain that the actual solid "core" of both the Conservative and Labor Parties has altered but little in the last five years.

THE ELEMENT held responsible for the last election victory for the Laborites consists of the more or less independent, non-party people.

They vote the way they feel like it at the last minute and are usually inclined to dislodge any government that has been in office longer than normally.

Women are important in this category. Also vital is the so-called middle class. Conservative spokesmen say that these white collar people, while receiving some benefits from the labor regime, have shouldered a threefold increase in living costs.

According to The London News Chronicle, working with the British Institute of Public Opinion, the Conservative lead in the straw vote has dropped from 10 percent to 2-1/2 percent since last November.

The Conservative manifesto, on which Churchill has been working feverishly since he cut short a landscape-painting vacation at Funchal in the Madeira Islands, is designed to recoup these reported losses.

Its emphasis on a speed-up in housing probably will get the greatest reception.

Another interesting issue raised by the manifesto is the "job freeze" policy of the Socialist government.

CONSERVATIVES claim that under Socialist influence the laws have taken such a form that within the last 10 years they have prevented Britons from COLOR TELEVISION reception is demonstrated by Forrest Kilby, 27, Roselle, N. changing jobs without permission.

It is one of the tenets of the "welfare state" to keep labor and industry, wages and prices, and profits and dividends on an even keel even at the risk of someone getting hurt in the process.

Obviously those who have been hurt will be more inclined to rebel than those who have seen their standard of living raised by the Laborites.

Local Youth

Proceeds of a chicken dinner given in St. Paul AME church last Sunday were used to help defray hospital costs for a Circleville youngster.

Dry Forces
Suffer Serious
Setback In Drive

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26—Ohio's dry forces have suffered a new and possibly final setback in their fight to compel the state legislature to adopt a county-wide option law.

Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy ruled that the petitions they presented to Secretary of State Charles F. Sweeney to initiate the proposal before the Ohio Legislature were invalid because of an insufficiency of signatures in Montgomery County.

Duffy held also that the circulators of the petitions are not entitled to a grace period to acquire new signatures because the fault lay in the petitions themselves and not merely in a lack of a sufficient number of valid signatures.

Unless Duffy's ruling is upset by the courts, it means the dry forces lose all the effort they have made to date in 43 other counties and must start circulating petitions anew.

Under Ohio law an initiated bill may be presented to the legislature on the valid signatures of three percent of the total number of voters who cast ballots for governor at the last election.

The names must come from at least 44 counties, each of which must have a minimum of 1 1/2 percent of the vote cast for governor.

When such a bill is validly presented the legislature is required

Coal Shortage
Report Made

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—Rep. Breen, (D) Ohio, disclosed today that he has advised President Truman that a "coal crisis" exists in Montgomery, Butler and Preble Counties in his state.

The former Dayton mayor declared in a statement that he had received many letters and telegrams from residents in the Southwestern Ohio district requesting his aid in halting the current coal shortage.

$20,000 Fire
Hits Landmark

CLEVELAND, Jan. 26—A $20,000 fire almost completely destroyed a 50-year-old frame home in suburban Richmond Heights last night.

More than 1,000 persons watched to act upon it within four months. If it does not enact the proposal into law, new petitions may be circulated to carry the fight directly to the people at the next election.

It was this same procedure which the backers of colored oleo margarine followed.

ed strong winds whip flames through the two-and-one-half story landmark on century-old White Estate while firemen from seven villages fought the fire.

The hour-long blaze is believed to have started when sparks were forced out of the chimney by a gas stove in a second-floor room.

A Roman senator was appointed for life unless expelled for some dishonorable cause.

SCIENTIFIC PROCESS NOW

Times Sure Do Change;
So Do Milking Rulings

Time was when milking was a fairly simple procedure. Hard for the city slicker, perhaps, but still nothing requiring a college degree.

But all that's changed. Milking is now bounded by rules, bordered by regulations. It has become a scientific process, with public health the first consideration.

A man with 40 acres, two cows and a bankfull of trouble can no longer rush in from the plowing and go right to work on the milking. Not if he wants to sell the stuff in Circleville.

There's the Ritual to be performed.

He has to wash his hands first. The "good, clean dirt" must go. And after that he must rinse them. But not in water. A bactericidal solution must be used.

THAT'S NOT ALL, though. He's not ready until he's put on clean clothes and sterilized the utensils he intends to use.

And even then he's not through. The cows themselves have to be cleaned, and with an approved bactericidal solution. After that the milking can be started. But it has to measure up to certain standards before it can be sold to milk distributors in Circleville.

All this is according to a set of milk regulations recently adopted by the Circleville board of health.

The regulations are now being studied by a city council committee. The milk code was adopted by the health board after local milk distributors offered to bear the cost of inspection and testing required under the code.

It was understood, however, that the city would bear the cost of any necessary office work—a matter which must be passed by city council.

The adoption of the milk code has been approved by most local producers, according to Larry Best, county extension agent.

The regulations will have the effect of placing local milk producers and distributors on a par with those in surrounding counties. Under the code milk would be graded "A," "B" and "C."

THE REGULATIONS, however, occasionally drift into some fine and fancy language. For instance, they stipulate that milk must be:

"the lactical secretion, practically free from colostrum, obtained by the complete milking of one or more healthy cows, which contains not less than 12 percent of milk solids and not less than three percent of milk fat."

The definition of milk fat is a tough one. It reads:

"Milk fat or butter fat is the fat of milk."

The regulations get into the heart of the thing with this paragraph:

"Average bacterial plate count, average direct microscopic count and average coliform count shall be taken to mean the logarithmic average, and average reduction time and average cooling temperature shall be taken to mean the arithmetic average, of the respective results of the last four consecutive samples, taken upon separate days, irrespective of the date of grading or regarding."

But Bossie doesn't know all that. It's still milk to her.

Family Of 5
Dies In Fire
Sweeping Home

HATBORO, Pa., Jan. 26 — A family of five persons died yesterday in a fire which swept a home in a federal housing project in outlying Lacey Park.

The victims were identified as Horace Morrow, 39; his wife, Claire, 41; and their three children—Patricia, 9, Virginia, 14, and Loretta, 2.

Bucks County Coroner J. Alfred Rigby said the father and children were burned to death while the mother was suffocated.

He said Mrs. Morrow collapsed when she ran back into the home to save the others. Firemen said they believed the fire started in the living room of the two-story structure.

Volunteer companies succeeded in preventing flames from spreading to other parts of the project.

Deadline Set
For Filing CCC
Grain Loans

Pickaway County farmers were warned Thursday that Jan. 31 is the deadline for filing Commodity Credit Corporation loans or purchase agreements for their 1949 crops of wheat and soybeans.

John G. Boggs, head of the local Production and Marketing Administration office, said the Jan. 31 deadline will be observed on all farm-stored wheat and soybean crops.

Boggs explained that the loans and purchase agreements for the 1949 wheat crops will expire April 30, 1950, while the loans and purchase agreements for soybeans will reach maturity May 31.

A total of 52 wheat loans covering 30,258 bushels have been filed to date in the local office, while four purchase agreements on wheat have been filed to cover 2,650 bushels.

In addition, 10 loans have been granted on 11,788 bushels of soybeans.

But the largest number of loans and purchase agreements are filed for the corn crop. Boggs said 320 cribs of corn in the county have been sealed to date under the government loan program, and that this year's total volume is expected to be greater than the 220,000 bushels covered last year.

Schools Facing
State Closure

RAVENNA, Jan. 26 — Three Portage County townships are preparing today to fight to keep their high schools open.

School boards in Shalersville, Streetsboro and Deerfield have received letters from the state informing them that a move to revoke their charters next June is under consideration.

The notices, which list violations of state regulations, followed tours of inspection of all county schools made recently by Glen Rich, state supervisor of high schools.

Charlestown, Freedom, Paris and Palmyra have also been told that their high schools may be closed after June 30 unless they meet state standards.

Jury-Tampering
Trial Opening

CLEVELAND, Jan. 26 — Arthur A. Forsberg, 53-year-old suspended head of a Cleveland branch postoffice, is to take the stand today to defend himself against charges of jury tampering.

Forsberg is accused of trying to persuade a fellow postoffice employee to "hang the jury" in the Alex "Shondor" Birns bomb-blackmail trial.

The "fix" attempt was brought to light when the mailman, Mike Rosic, reported it to Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court Judge Edward Blythin, who presided at the trial.

Nenabal was stabbed in the ensuing scuffle, and taken to St. Luke's hospital for treatment.

The woman was later arrested on description but refused to give police her name.

No 1950 Schedule Is Yet Set Up

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26 — National-American Football League owners wound up their hectic six-day organizational meeting Tuesday with a two-division circuit but no 1950 schedule.

The 13 team owners turned over the schedule problem to NFL Commissioner Bert Bell, who absorbed most of the headaches of the conference.

Bell wearily announced that the complete schedule will be issued in about a month. These are the divisions the commissioner has to work with:

Division A: Philadelphia Eagles, Cleveland Browns, New York Giants, Chicago Cardinals, Washington Redskins and Pittsburgh Steelers.

Division B: Chicago Bears, Green Bay Packers, Detroit Lions, Los Angeles Rams, San Francisco 49ers and New York Bulldogs.

THE BALTIMORE Colts, one of three All-America Conference outfits to join the new league, were designated as the "swing" team which plays each of the other 12 teams once.

The owners also ruled that no home team can televise its games for immediate viewing except by consent of both teams and the commissioner.

Visiting teams, it was decided, may televise back to their home city area (of 75 miles) if the home team consents. In this case, the home team is not to be compensated by the sponsor.

Before adjournment, the conferees agreed to retain the traditional player limit of 32 for each team.

The ultimate league division voted yesterday afternoon, embraced the original merger terms laid down last December between the old National Football League and the All-America Conference.

These terms stated that each team in each division would play each divisional rival home-and-home, plus one game with Baltimore and one game with a "traditional rival" in the other division.

Bell overrode objections by some club owners that this setup wouldn't do their gate receipts much good.

SPECIFICALLY, it was noted that the two New York teams and the Chicago pair are in opposite divisions and can't meet more than once before packed hometown crowds.

Bell further stipulated that teams in the same division could not meet in exhibition games. He said Baltimore will be allowed to play an exhibition with any team, provided the site is not the same as that contested during the regular season.

At any rate, the divisional set-up assures two games between the Philadelphia Eagles, Old NFL champions, and the AAC kingly, the Cleveland Browns, who are both in Division A.

Oddly enough, the club owners failed to decide what name to apply to each division, although the merger pact called for "National" and "American" groups.

Citation Given Edge In 'Cap In Arcadia

ARCADIA, Cal., Jan. 26—Citation, well on the way to becoming the first horse in history to win $1 million, will be after an additional $2,900 today at Santa Anita Park.

The great Calumet Farm's champion was named as a surprise starter in the Mt. Baldy Handicap, a six-furlong sprint for 4-year-olds and up. To date he has won $867,750. Citation will carry top impost of 130 pounds against five other campaigners.

Opposing him will be On Trust, Mische, Royal Blood, Hunon Kid and Double Jay. It will be the most weight Citation has ever carried in a race.

Citation, who has won 29 races in 31 starts, was quoted at 5 to 5 odds on the morning line.

Blackwood Gives Fox Ring Lesson

AKRON, Jan. 26 — Quick-punching Joe Blackwood of Paterson, N. J., gave Philadelphia's Blackjack Billy Fox a four-round boxing lesson here last night before winning a technical knockout.

Fox, who weighed in at 170½, seven pounds heavier than Blackwood, did not hit the canvas, but was virtually a punching bag for the sharp-hitting New Jersey brawler. The match was scheduled for 10 rounds.

Dave Marsh of Akron scored a unanimous decision over Doug Medley of Louisville in the 10-pound semifinal.

Big Boy Out; Deer Juniors Top Darby Again

Williamsport junior high basketball team again tripped the Darby Township juniors Wednesday by a 37-18 victory on the Darby hardwood.

Darby was handicapped in the Wednesday fracas when Bob Drummond, its towering 6'4" center, was unable to don basketball togs because of illness.

Both teams almost were equally matched during the first quarter of play when Williamsport garnered a meagre 5-4 advantage.

Darby's junior cagers were completely demoralized in the second period of the game, however, when the Williamsport juniors scored 14 points while keeping the host club scoreless.

Clyde Speakman of Williamsport was largely responsible for the Darby win, ranking as high scorer in the tussle with 14 points. John McPherson paced his Darby quint during the encounter with a total of 11.

If both Darby and Williamsport win their first round games in the Pickaway County junior high tournament which begins Saturday in Jackson Township school, they will meet for the third time this season.

IBC Given Questions To Answer

Club Doesn't Want Maxim vs. Charles

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 — The International Boxing Club is very pleased with Joe Maxim for having won the world's light-heavyweight title, Maxim being as necessary to IBC plans as a hole in the head.

What the IBC has to do now is keep Doc Kearns, Maxim's manager, from gaining Joe a shot at Ezzard Charles' somewhat petrified heavy-weight crown.

They cannot keep Kearns from claiming such an opportunity, which is something he has been doing ever since he first saw Maxim, but they can keep him from getting it.

The IBC people argue that Charles has faced Maxim three times and beat him three times, which is true.

Kearns argues that Maxim is a changed man. Furthermore, he says, Joe came within a whisker of deciding Ezzard in the hands of some new Cincinnati Gardens Arena last February, when Joe Louis was still champion; and the least that might have come out of that was a rematch.

FURTHERMORE, says Kearns, Maxim beat Gus Lesnevich in the Spring so Lesnevich gets a title shot at Charles in the Summer. What kind of sense does that make?

There are no answers to these questions. What's happening instead, is that IBC officials are talking now in terms of putting Maxim against Roland LaStarza or Rocky Marciano, or maybe both, the eventual winner to oppose Charles for the title in June.

Maxim vs. LaStarza might produce the first four dollar gate in history, but the IBC is busily lining up all sorts of things like that.

Tomorrow, for instance, contracts are supposed to be signed for Charles' third defense of his title, in which, on Feb. 28 in Buffalo, he will oppose Fred Besheore of California.

All is confusing. Maxim, who supposedly didn't have a punch, knocked out not only Freddie Mills, but four of Freddie's teeth, in winning the light-heavyweight jewels in London night before last.

And he is eager to fight again (Maxim, not Mills; Mills done retired). Maybe the public will see Joe, Maxim vs. Freddie Besheore before next Fall.

Heintzelman Seeking More

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26 — Ken Heintzelman, the Phillies' star southpaw pitcher who won 17 and lost 8 last year, has sent back his 1950 contract with the terse comment "not enough."

Heintzelman is believed to have received a base salary of $11,000 last season plus a $2500 bonus for his fine showing.

SECOND ROUND IN OFFING Tigers Seeking Victory Against Wilmington '5'

Circleville Tigers will invade at Wilmington Friday night to begin its second round of South Central Ohio League competition.

To date, the CHS'ers have scored eight wins in 10 starts, losing only to Grandview and Greenfield cagers. The Greenfield defeat was the only SCOL loss suffered by the Tigers in four starts.

Wilmington, on the other hand, has lost eight of its nine games to date this season, dropping all four of its league encounters.

The lone Wilmington win was a season-opener against Class B Fairfield school, followed by a string of eight straight losses.

Circleville scored an easy 44-28 win over the Hurricane in Pickaway Coliseum two weeks ago, an unspectacular contest in which both teams showed much action but little basketball.

STARTING lineup for the host Hurricane aggregation probably will be the same as the team which started here, with Gordon Cordell and Warren Meade at forwards; Arthur Haines at center; and Herman Cartwright and Lloyd Long at guards.

A new addition to the team will be Bob Freike at replacement forward. Freike was benched with a sprained ankle during the first Wilmington-Circleville tussle, and reportedly had been turning in good hardwood performances prior to the injury.

Tiger lineup for the encounter probably will be the same as that which proved highly effective against Chillicothe Tuesday night.

That lineup was John Valentine and Jim Starkey at the forward slots; Don Cook at center; and Sandy Hill and Abe Rihl at the guards.

Circleville reserves, knocked off for the third time this season Tuesday at Chillicothe, will place an unblemished SCOL record on the block in the preliminary contest Friday. To date, the local juniors have registered four-for-four in league competition.

The reserve contest is slated to begin at about 7 p. m., followed by the varsity engagement at about 8:15 p. m.

Fesler, feted last night by the Columbus All-Sports Council, accepted the plaque designating him as "Columbus' Top Sports Figure of 1949." The Buck mentor said:

"This award is No. 3 in my heart. I guess I'm the luckiest man in athletics."

Fesler explained that No. 1 was a medal he got in 1928 when he was a sophomore griddier at Ohio State. He was adjudged "the most improved player."

The No. 2 award came in 1930 when he was named the most valuable member of the squad and nominated for the Chicago Tribune Award, which, later, he won.

Harold (Red) Grange, the Illinois football immortal, paid tribute to the Buck squad and Coach Fesler. He lauded Fesler as "the coach of the year."

Joey Maxim To Be Feted

CLEVELAND, Jan. 26 — A "Joey Maxim Day" will be held sometime next month in honor of the class Cleveland who wrestled the world's light-heavyweight crown from Freddie Mills Tuesday.

Chester J. Koch, co-ordinator of patriotic activities for the city, said he would welcome assistance from any sports groups in the city.

"Acting Mayor Lee Howley has promised complete cooperation," Koch said, "and we're going all out to make it a really festive occasion."

Lemon Waiting For Contract

CLEVELAND, Jan. 26 — Pitcher Bob Lemon, the Cleveland Indians' "Man of the Year" in 1949, remained in Cleveland today, determined to wait for a better contract offer from the Tribe.

The Indians' two-time 20-game winner conferred with General Manager Hank Greenberg yesterday but refused to sign.

Lemon is believed to be seeking about $35,000 for the 1950 season. The Tribe first offered him a salary below $30,000, but a compromise figure over the $30,000 figure seemed the answer.

Sacksteder Out Of Toledo Job

TOLEDO, Jan. 26 — Al Sacksteder, Toledo Scott high school football coach and athletic director, was ousted from his post yesterday by the school's athletic council.

Sacksteder became head coach in 1943 and was made athletic director in 1946.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By SENATOR ROBERT A. TAFT

During the month of January, the Senate will consider the bill to establish a Fair Employment Practices Commission and possibly also the federal anti-lynching bill. These bills are part of the so-called civil rights program which has become a slogan without any clear idea of exactly what it covers. As I see it, it is intended to enable men to enforce more effectively their constitutional rights and to reduce discrimination. Undoubtedly, there is such discrimination against Negroes in many parts of the United States.

The most serious discrimination, I think, is in employment, and rather more in the North than in the South—that is to say, the jobs open to Negroes are limited in number and character.

They are more likely to be laid off first when a depression occurs, and they are the last to be put back to work. Also, there are parts of the country where they are not permitted to vote and where any effort to insist on certain constitutional rights brings a threat of violence.

I feel that the poll tax is used to prevent the Negroes voting in the six states where it remains, and I have always supported a bill to abolish the poll tax as a condition of voting in national elections. I have also supported a federal anti-lynching bill such as that now on our Senate calendar.

To deal with the problem of discrimination in employment, I have advocated the setting up of a Fair Employment Practices Commission to begin with a study of the whole problem. I believe that the condition can be greatly improved on a study and co-operative basis.

THE FEPC existing during the war was able to improve greatly the industrial condition of the colored people, though it had no enforcement powers. Such a Commission, after studying an industrial city and determining what the situation is, could call all the employers together and lay out a definite plan for increasing the number of jobs open to Negroes and also for improving the grade of such jobs. I believe all the larger employers, with the backing of the President would go along and set an example to the others.

I have been opposed to setting up a great federal organization to pass on the possible prejudices involved in any one of the 60 million employment relationships in the United States.

It would subject millions of employers to arbitrary action by some federal board.

That board would have to determine in each case the motive of an employer in turning down an applicant for work; and, because motive is a question of fact, there would practically be no appeal to the courts. In my opinion, the federal government is no proper agency to deal directly with 140 million individuals in this country, or to try to offer a legal enforcement remedy for all their problems.

In considering the rights of the minorities, we must also consider the rights of the several million employers who are responsible for constantly increasing our production and standard of living.

IT CERTAINLY is a serious deprivation of liberty to say to a man that he must employ someone who he may consider to be unfitted or perhaps entirely incompetent for the particular job, or prove the validity of his opinion in court.

Furthermore, the effort of the federal government to deal with all these millions of cases is bound to create bitter feeling and, in my opinion, increase race feeling and prejudice rather than to remove it.

Whatever civil rights bills are proposed, I believe very strongly that the proponents have a right to have the bills voted on in the Senate. I have supported cloture, or limitation of debate, therefore, on all these measures, after a reasonable time is given for debate.

The Republicans last year succeeded in securing an amendment to the cloture rule, which now makes cloture possible, as it has not been during the last 12 years that I have been in the Senate. I think we shall see a definite vote on one or more of the civil rights measures which I have discussed.

Farm Production Last Year Stays At 1948 Level

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—Farm production for sale and home consumption of all commodities combined stayed at the record 1948 level during 1949.

The Agriculture Department said the record was kept running despite the fact that neither livestock nor crops, taken separately, was at record production levels.

Livestock was three percent below the 1948 level—seven below the 1944 peak—and crops dropped off four percent from the 1948 peak during 1949.

And, the department added, farmers' cash receipts from marketings during January will reach about $2.2 billion.

When the final January tallies are in, the department expects cash receipts to have dipped seasonally from December for a 10 percent slide from receipts in January 1949.

Final figures will show that although the volume of marketings this month were about the same as a year ago, cash receipts will be lower due to lower prices.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Give Us Back Our Sidewalks, Slim!

I wrote that over an article in the Clarion last week, but I didn't like doing it. After all, the man it was aimed at—Slim Henderson—is a good friend of mine.

Slim came into quite a windfall last month, and bought the old Clarke place. The deed gave him title to all the land—right down to the street. Then Slim started to take up the sidewalk to make his lawn look better.

I felt it wasn't fair to the town and said so in my article. Next morning Slim comes around and wants to know what I mean—getting folks riled against him. I felt ornery myself, and we had quite a set-to over the whole business.

From where I sit, that was foolish. Once we'd cooled off (over lunch and a bottle of beer at Andy's Tavern), Slim decided the sidewalks should stay—for the common good and I promised next time I'd take a good look at the other fellow's point of view before writing any articles about him!

Nearly $19 Million To Be Spent By Local Power Firm

'50 Program Outlined By Company

Columbus, Southern Ohio To Expand

To increase the generating capacity of its system and to extend and improve its service in twenty-one counties, the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. will spend $18,725,000 this year.

Largest single project planned for the year is the installation of a second generating unit of 40,000 kilowatt capacity at the new E. M. Poston generating plant in Athens County. Field construction for this new machine was started in 1949, and $6,700,000 will be expended for its completion during the year 1950.

Construction of the Poston plant, the company's fourth generating station, was started Dec. 17, 1947, and the first 40,000 kilowatt-unit went into service last Oct. 19. The second unit is expected to be completed in September and a third larger unit of 60,000 kilowatts is scheduled to go into service late in 1951 or early in 1952. The entire project, when completed, is expected to cost in excess of $26,000,000.

An additional $700,000 will be expended for miscellaneous equipment improvements at the Picway and Walnut generating plants.

FOR CONSTRUCTION of new transmission substations and lines, and additions and improvements to substations and lines now in service, the company will spend $5,750,000. Of this amount $1,300,000 will be spent for the erection of two new 138,000-volt substations in or near Columbus; $465,000 for a similar substation in Chillicothe; and $135,000 to complete the erection of a high voltage substation in Circleville. Additions to transmission substations in and near Columbus and in Athens, Ross and Highland Counties will cost $680,000. The construction of a new 138,000 volt overhead transmission line over private right-of-way from the new Poston plant to Chillicothe, to Circleville, and to Marion Road in South Columbus, will cost $2,035,000.

Other transmission lines connecting the new substations to be erected in Columbus will cost $690,000; and improvements costing $445,000 will be made to various other transmission circuits of lower voltage at various points in Central and Southern Ohio.

To meet the growing requirements of its distribution system, the company plans to spend $4,575,000. These improvements include a new substation in the eastern part of Columbus costing $150,000; a new substation near Athens, $80,000; a new substation at Camp Sherman near Chillicothe, $50,000; additions to three substations in Columbus, $100,000; installation of voltage regulating equipment in Columbus, $400,000; installation of transformers, regulators, capacitors and switching equipment in scores of substations throughout the company's territory, $630,000.

EXTENSIONS and replacements to its distribution lines are expected to cost $1,340,000. Construction of 25 miles of rural lines near Columbus and of 210 miles in rural territories of the southern area will cost $330,000. The sum of $130,000 will be spent in Grove City for the complete rebuilding of its distribution system; and improvements to the underground distribution system in downtown Columbus are expected to cost $130,000.

Under the classification "general and miscellaneous," the company expects to spend $1,000,000. Approximately $600,000 of this amount is assigned for construction of new service buildings. The company's growth during the last few years requires extensive changes in its office and service buildings in Columbus. Two new service buildings are scheduled to be constructed in Columbus, and two similar structures in Southern Ohio. Minor additions or alterations will also be made to company structures in Circleville, Athens, Chillicothe, Gallipolis, Hillsboro, Jackson, Manchester, McArthur, Nelsonville, Peebles and Waverly.

Pro Grid Loop Split Into 2 Units

No 1950 Schedule Is Yet Set Up

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26 — National-American Football League owners wound up their hectic six-day organizational meeting Tuesday with a two-division circuit but no 1950 schedule.

The 13 team owners turned over the schedule problem to NFL Commissioner Bert Bell, who absorbed most of the headaches of the conference.

Bell wearily announced that the complete schedule will be issued in about a month. These are the divisions the commissioner has to work with:

Division A: Philadelphia Eagles, Cleveland Browns, New York Giants, Chicago Cardinals, Washington Redskins and Pittsburgh Steelers.

Division B: Chicago Bears, Green Bay Packers, Detroit Lions, Los Angeles Rams, San Francisco 49ers and New York Bulldogs.

THE BALTIMORE Colts, one of three All-America Conference outfits to join the new league, were designated as the "swing" team which plays each of the other 12 teams once.

The owners also ruled that no home team can televise its games for immediate viewing except by consent of both teams and the commissioner.

Visiting teams, it was decided, may televise back to their home city area (of 75 miles) if the home team consents. In this case, the home team is not to be compensated by the sponsor.

Before adjournment, the conferees agreed to retain the traditional player limit of 32 for each team.

The ultimate league division voted yesterday afternoon, embraced the original merger terms laid down last December between the old National Football League and the All-America Conference.

These terms stated that each team in each division would play each divisional rival home-and-home, plus one game with Baltimore and one game with a "traditional rival" in the other division.

Bell overrode objections by some club owners that this setup wouldn't do their gate receipts much good.

SPECIFICALLY, it was noted that the two New York teams and the Chicago pair are in opposite divisions and can't meet more than once before packed hometown crowds.

Bell further stipulated that teams in the same division could not meet in exhibition games. He said Baltimore will be allowed to play an exhibition with any team, provided the site is not the same as that contested during the regular season.

At any rate, the divisional set-up assures two games between the Philadelphia Eagles, Old NFL champions, and the AAC kinglys, the Cleveland Browns, who are both in Division A. Oddly enough, the club owners failed to decide what name to apply to each division, although the merger pact called for "National" and "American" groups.

Citation Given Edge In 'Cap In Arcadia

ARCADIA, Cal., Jan. 26—Citation, well on the way to becoming the first horse in history to win $1 million, will be after an additional $2,900 today at Santa Anita Park.

The great Calumet Farm's champion was named as a surprise starter in the Mt. Baldy Handicap, a six-furlong sprint for 4-year-olds and up. To date he has won $667,750. Citation will carry top impost of 130 pounds against five other campaigners. Opposing him will be On Trust, Mico, Royal Blood, Hunon Kid and Double Jay. It will be the most weight Citation has ever carried in a race.

Citation, who has won 29 races in 31 starts, was quoted at 5 to 5 odds on the morning line.

Blackwood Gives Fox Ring Lesson

AKRON, Jan. 26 — Quick-punching Joe Blackwood of Paterson, N. J., gave Philadelphia's Blackjack Billy Fox a four-round boxing lesson here last night before winning a technical knockout.

Fox, who weighed in at 170½, seven pounds heavier than Blackwood, did not hit the canvas, but was virtually a punching bag for the sharp-hitting New Jersey brawler. The match was scheduled for 10 rounds.

Dave Marsh of Akron scored a unanimous decision over Doug Medley of Louisville in the 10-round semifinal.

Big Boy Out; Deer Juniors Top Darby Again

Williamsport junior high basketball team again tripped the Darby Township juniors Wednesday by a 37-18 victory on the Darby hardwood.

Darby was handicapped in the Wednesday fracas when Bob Drummond, its towering 6'4" center, was unable to don basketball togs because of illness.

Both teams almost were equally matched during the first quarter of play when Williamsport garnered a meagre 5-4 advantage.

Darby's junior cagers were completely demoralized in the second period of the game, however, when the Williamsport juniors scored 14 points while keeping the host club scoreless.

Clyde Speakman of Williamsport was largely responsible for the Darby win, ranking as high scorer in the tussle with 14 points. John McPherson paced his Darby quint during the encounter with a total of 11.

If both Darby and Williamsport win their first round games in the Pickaway County junior high tournament which begins Saturday in Jackson Township school, they will meet for the third time this season.

IBC Given Questions To Answer

Club Doesn't Want Maxim vs. Charles

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 — The International Boxing Club is very pleased with Joey Maxim for having won the world's light-heavyweight title, Maxim being as necessary to IBC plans as a hole in the head.

What the IBC has to do now is keep Doc Kearns, Maxim's manager, from gaining Joey a shot at Ezzard Charles' somewhat petrified heavy-weight crown.

They cannot keep Kearns from claiming such an opportunity, which is something he has been doing ever since he first saw Maxim, but they can keep him from getting it.

The IBC people argue that Charles has faced Maxim three times and beat him three times, which is true.

Kearns argues that Maxim is a changed man. Furthermore, he says, Joey came within a whisker of decisioning Ez in the handsome new Cincinnati Gardens Arena last February, when Joe Louis was still champion; and the least that might have come out of that was a rematch.

FURTHERMORE, says Kearns, Maxim beat Gus Lesnevich in the Spring so Lesnevich gets a title shot at Charles in the Summer. What kind of sense does that make?

There are no answers to these questions. What's happening instead, is that IBC officials are talking now in terms of putting Maxim against Roland LaStarza or Rocky Marciano, or maybe both, the eventual winner to oppose Charles for the title in June.

Maxim vs. LaStarza might produce the first four dollar gate in history, but the IBC is busily lining up all sorts of things like that.

Tomorrow, for instance, contracts are supposed to be signed for Charles' third defense of his title, in which, on Feb. 28 in Buffalo, he will oppose Fred Besheore of California.

All is confusing, Maxim, who supposedly didn't have a punch, knocked out not only Freddie Mills, but four of Freddie's teeth, in winning the light-heavyweight jewels in London night before last.

And he is eager to fight again (Maxim, not Mills; Mills done retired). Maybe the public will see Joe, Maxim vs. Freddie Besheore before next Fall.

Heintzelman Seeking More

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26 — Ken Heintzelman, the Phillies' star southpaw pitcher who won 17 and lost 8 last year, has sent back his 1950 contract with the terse comment "not enough."

Heintzelman is believed to have received a base salary of $11,000 last season plus a $2500 bonus for his fine showing.

SECOND ROUND IN OFFING

Tigers Seeking Victory Against Wilmington '5'

Circleville Tigers will invade at Wilmington Friday night to begin its second round of South Central Ohio League competition.

To date, the CHS'ers have scored eight wins in 10 starts, losing only to Grandview and Greenfield cagers. The Greenfield defeat was the only SCOL loss suffered by the Tigers in four starts.

Wilmington, on the other hand, has lost eight of its nine games to date this season, dropping all four of its league encounters.

The lone Wilmington win was a season-opener against Class B Fairfield school, followed by a

Fesler Given His 'No. 3' Grid Trophy

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26—Wesley E. Fesler, the Ohio State university coach who piloted the Buck grid squad to a victorious Rose Bowl show, has trophy "No. 3" today.

Fesler, feted last night by the Columbus All-Sports Council, accepted the plaque designating him as "Columbus' Top Sports Figure of 1949." The Buck mentor said:

"This award is No. 3 in my heart. I guess I'm the luckiest man in athletics."

Fesler explained that No. 1 was a medal he got in 1928 when he was a sophomore griddier at Ohio State. He was adjudged "the most improved player." The No. 2 award came in 1930 when he was named the most valuable member of the squad and nominated for the Chicago Tribune Award, which, later, he won.

Harold (Red) Grange, the Illinois football immortal, paid tribute to the Buck squad and Coach Fesler. He lauded Fesler as "the coach of the year."

Joey Maxim To Be Feted

CLEVELAND, Jan. 26 — A "Joey Maxim Day" will be held sometime next month in honor of the classy Clevelander who wrested the world's light-heavyweight crown from Freddie Mills Tuesday.

Chester J. Koch, co-ordinator of patriotic activities for the city, said he would welcome assistance from any sports groups in the city.

"Acting Mayor Lee Howley has promised complete cooperation," Koch said, "and we're going all out to make it a really festive occasion."

Lemon Waiting For Contract

CLEVELAND, Jan. 26—Pitcher Bob Lemon, the Cleveland Indians' "Man of the Year" in 1949, remained in Cleveland today, determined to wait for a better contract offer from the Tribe.

The Indians' two-time 20-game winner conferred with General Manager Hank Greenberg yesterday but refused to sign.

Lemon is believed to be seeking about $35,000 for the 1950 season. The Tribe first offered him a salary below $30,000, but a compromise figure over the $30,000 figure seemed the answer.

string of eight straight losses. Circleville scored an easy 44-28 win over the Hurricane in Pickaway Coliseum two weeks ago, an unspectacular contest in which both teams showed much action but little basketball.

STARTING lineup for the host Hurricane aggregation probably will be the same as the team which started here, with Gordon Cordell and Warren Meade at forwards; Arthur Haines at center; and Herman Cartwright and Lloyd Long at guards.

A new addition to the team will be Bob Freike at replacement forward. Freike was benched with a sprained ankle during the first Wilmington-Circleville tussle, and reportedly has been turning in good hardwood performances prior to the injury.

Tiger lineup for the encounter probably will be the same as that which proved highly effective against Chillicothe Tuesday night.

That lineup was John Valentine and Jim Starkey at the forward slots; Don Cook at center; and Sandy Hill and Abe Rihl at the guards.

Circleville reserves, knocked off for the third time this season Tuesday at Chillicothe, will place an unblemished SCOL record on the block in the preliminary contest Friday. To date, the local juniors have registered four-for-four in league competition.

The reserve contest is slated to begin at about 7 p. m., followed by the varsity engagement at about 8:15 p. m.

Hogan And Snead Renew Golf Duel In Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 26—Bantam Ben Hogan and Sam Snead renew their golf feud here today when play begins in the $10,000 Ben Hogan Open.

Formerly called the Phoenix Open, the tourney this year has been named in honor of the Mighty Mite of the links who roared back to championship contention after a near-fatal automobile accident last February.

Snead served notice that he is the man to beat as he toured the Phoenix Country Club course with a 3-under par 68 in yesterday's pro-amateur tourney—pre-view to the big test.

But while Snead had the better of the scoring, Hogan had the gallery. He stayed at even par figures on both sides, turning the first nine in 36, and the homeward side in 35.

Hogan said he was feeling "100 percent better" after winning a short battle with the flu. He missed last week's Long Beach Open in order to rest.

Bantam Ben is no stranger to the 6620-yard course. He won the Phoenix Open there in 1946 and '47, and last year was defeated by Jimmy Demaret in a playoff. It was after the playoff that Hogan was injured while bound for his Ft. Worth, Texas, home.

Sacksteder Out Of Toledo Job

TOLEDO, Jan. 26—Al Sacksteder, Toledo Scott high school football coach and athletic director, was ousted from his post yesterday by the school's athletic council.

Sacksteder became head coach in 1943 and was made athletic director in 1946.

Other transmission lines connecting the new substations to be erected in Columbus will cost $690,000; and improvements costing $445,000 will be made to various other transmission circuits of lower voltage at various points in Central and Southern Ohio.

To meet the growing requirements of its distribution system, the company plans to spend $4,575,000. These improvements include a new substation in the eastern part of Columbus costing $150,000; a new substation near Athens, $80,000; a new substation at Camp Sherman near Chillicothe, $50,000; additions to three substations in Columbus, $100,000; installation of voltage regulating equipment in Columbus, $400,000; installation of transformers, regulators, capacitors and switching equipment in scores of substations throughout the company's territory, $630,000.

EXTENSIONS and replacements to its distribution lines are expected to cost $1,340,000. Construction of 25 miles of rural lines near Columbus and of 210 miles in rural territories of the southern area will cost $330,000. The sum of $130,000 will be spent in Grove City for the complete rebuilding of its distribution system; and improvements to the underground distribution system in downtown Columbus are expected to cost $130,000.

Under the classification "general and miscellaneous," the company expects to spend $1,000,000. Approximately $600,000 of this amount is assigned for construction of new service buildings.

The company's growth during the last few years requires extensive changes in its office and service buildings in Columbus. Two new service buildings are scheduled to be constructed in Columbus, and two similar structures in Southern Ohio. Minor additions or alterations will also be made to company structures in Circleville, Athens, Chillicothe, Gallipolis, Hillsboro, Jackson, Manchester, McArthur, Nelsonville, Peebles and Waverly.
